

Want Justices To Give Their Views on Plan To Alter Court

Proper for Judges to Appear, Opponents of Proposal Hold

CONTINUE HEARING Dean of Northwestern Law School Urges Passage of Bill

Washington—(P)—Senatorial opponents of the Roosevelt judiciary bill declared today it would be entirely proper for members of the supreme court to express their views at the senate hearings.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), who contends a constitutional amendment is the only way to limit the court's powers, said:

"The president and others have quoted from Chief Justice Hughes as well as Justices Brandeis and Stone, but of course they have picked out only sentences to suit their purpose."

"Why shouldn't the country have the benefit of their opinions from the justices themselves about the problems confronting us and how they should be met?"

Declaring his views "have been almost entirely in line with those of the liberal group on the court," Wheeler said he believed the senate judiciary committee should hear both from conservative and liberal justices.

Witnesses invited to appear today in support of the bill were Dean Leon Green of the Northwestern University law school, Prof. Charles G. Haines of the University of California and Prof. Robert E. Cushman of Cornell university.

Three Approached Opponents, who were heard, have approached at least three justices on the question of testifying.

Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz.) said any justice who wished to be heard would be given the opportunity, and that any committee member could invite members of the court to speak for or against the measure.

The frequent division in the court on constitutional questions came up again in the hearings yesterday during testimony by Prof. Edward S. Corwin of Princeton university.

He advocated the Roosevelt bill on grounds that it meant "untying the hands of the liberal viewpoint in the ascendancy."

The possibility of justices testifying, perhaps next week, was raised by the unexpected fraternal speech Tuesday night of Justice McReynolds. While he did not mention the issue, he left no doubt among the administration opponents that he would side with them in case he should agree to state his position as a witness.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), who heard McReynolds, was one of the judiciary committee members hoping that attempts to obtain the justices' consent to appear would be successful.

"They know more about the problem than anyone else," he said.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), another Roosevelt opponent, indicated he would like the supreme court to appoint a committee to speak.

Urges Approval Dean Leon Green of Northwestern University law school urged congress today to pass the Roosevelt court bill in order to get a "fair court."

Green was cross examined sharply by the senate judiciary committee after he had made one of the most severe criticisms of the present supreme court that the committee has heard to date.

Before another large crowd, Green read in a loud voice that echoed through the big room a prepared statement asserting that a majority of the high court had "assumed an attitude of intolerance and has displayed an intolerance" towards much of recent legislation submitted to it.

Calling the supreme court "the ark of the covenant, the country's greatest symbol of order, stable and righteous government," Green said it "was being used as a 'smoke screen' by those opposed to what the Roosevelt administration was trying to do to meet current problems."

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) quickly confronted the law school dean with a speech he had made a few years ago saying that the American court

Amelia Earhart Reaches Honolulu After 16-Hour Hop Over Pacific Ocean

Assembly Kills Catlin Measure For Second Time

Bill Would Have Changed Law on Number of City Supervisors

Madison—The house today killed for the second time the bill of Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Jr. (Rep.), Appleton, which was designed to permit municipalities having small city councils to increase their representation on the county board without increasing the number of aldermen. Present law allows only one supervisor for each city ward.

The assembly voted overwhelmingly to kill the bill of Senator Oscar S. Paulson (Prog.), LaCrosse, which would have permitted public school children to be absent from class one hour each week for religious instruction.

Opponents of the measure, who included members of all parties, declared it might be an "entering wedge" to establish religious education in the schools.

The vote was 66 to 24.

Senator Paulson, the author, is a Lutheran minister. His bill was supported by Assemblyman H. S. Halvorsen (Prog.), Westby, who has a companion proposal in the house.

Halvorsen said that other states have a similar law and that the measure was endorsed by the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Labor Act Upheld By Circuit Court

New Orleans Tribunal Voids Judgment of Western Texas District

New Orleans—(P)—The United States fifth circuit court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the National Labor Relations act.

In doing so the circuit court voided a judgment of the Western Texas district which held that the act violated article I, section 1 of the federal constitution.

The case was brought here by Edwin A. Elliott, regional director of the National Labor Relations board.

Elliott contended that the El Paso Electric company, which obtains power from a New Mexico plant, committed unfair labor practices affecting interstate commerce.

The circuit court held that the lower court erred in that the act had not been shown to be unconstitutional "beyond every reasonable doubt."

"A legislative act should not be declared void," the circuit court said, "unless it unconstitutionally appeared beyond every reasonable doubt and such a ruling is necessary to the disposition of this case."

Would Pay Cost for Veterans at Reunion

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman Charles B. Perry, (Rep.), Milwaukee, introduced a bill today to encourage all members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate veterans now living in Wisconsin, to attend the national memorial reunion in Pennsylvania, in July, 1938, on the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

The bill requires the state to pay the full cost of transportation and meals for any veteran whose qualifications are approved by the adjutant general's office.

Woman Faints When Told She'll Get $75 Pension

Milwaukee—(P)—Mrs. Susie Krause, 70, collapsed when she was picked to receive $75 a month as part of a pension plan experiment.

Her name was drawn last night at a party given at Pilgrim hall by the Wisconsin Pension and Recovery Plan, Inc.

Friends revived her in time to receive the award, however.

Honolulu, P. H.—(P)—Amelia Earhart landed her globe-girdling "flying laboratory" at Wheeler field at 8:29 a. m. Pacific standard time today (10:29 a. m. central standard time) completing her 2,400 mile over-water hop from Oakland, Calif. in less than 16 hours.

The flight was the fastest ever made in the westerly direction. The record made by the Hawaii clipper last December was 16 hours, 58 minutes.

The aviatix and her crew of three thus averaged better than 150 miles an hour on the night flight which began at Oakland at 4:37 P. M. T. yesterday.

Her time of 15 hours, 54 minutes was made through cloudy skies and occasional shower without mishap.

Miss Earhart's $50,000 craft arrived over the city at an altitude of 1,500 feet at 10:17 a. m. (C. S. T.) The Earhart plane left Oakland after the departure of two Pan-American clippers but passed the slower and heavier ships enroute.

"All's well" was broadcast throughout the night by the woman and flier, who had crossed both the Atlantic and Pacific ocean in previous flights.

There was a slight drizzle of rain and dark clouds overhung Wheeler field, the army airport at Schofield barracks, as the plane came to a graceful landing.

Miss Earhart arrived shortly after daylight and several hundred spectators, including some still in evening dress, were at the field.

At Oakland, George Palm Putnam, husband of Miss Earhart, ended a 16 hour vigil by taking his feet off a table, sighing and smiling.

"Guess I'll go to bed," he remarked.

Miss Earhart who had flown most of the night at the controls admitted she was "terribly tired."

She turned the controls over to Paul Mantz, her technical adviser, just before the 8-ton plane landed.

At Oakland, George Palm Putnam, husband of Miss Earhart, ended a 16 hour vigil by taking his feet off a table, sighing and smiling.

"Guess I'll go to bed," he remarked.

Accompanying the aviatix were Paul Mantz, her technical adviser, who will leave the plane at Honolulu; Fred J. Noonan, former Pan-American pilot who will go as far as Howland Island, first stop after Honolulu; and Capt. Harry Manning, who will act as navigator to Port Darwin, Australia. From there Miss Earhart will continue alone.

Climax of Air Feats For Miss Earhart, who waited three days for flying weather, the trip was a climax in her aviation accomplishments which include a pair of trans-Atlantic flights in addition to the Honolulu-Oakland voyage.

Her $50,000 plane, partly outfitted through funds supplied by Purdue university, carried nearly 6,000 stamp cachets. Proceeds from them will help finance the world equatorial flight.

The 8-ton low wing monoplane, is fitted with every possible instrument for safe and efficient flying. The plane has a top speed of 220 miles per hour and can cruise between 180 and 190.

Actress Says Man She Shot Betrayed Trust

Paris—(P)—Her dark eyes flashing, beautiful Madeline La Ferriere declared today she shot and wounded Count Charles de Chamburn, former ambassador to Italy, because he "betrayed my love" for a man "too famous to let me speak his name."

The striking brunette invoked the unwritten code of diplomatic honor as her defense, claiming the French envoy had betrayed her confidence.

The wounding of the French envoy yesterday as he boarded the Brussels express caused a major sensation in society and diplomatic circles with speculation rife as to the identity of the "great Italian man of state" whose love Mme. La Ferriere accused Chamburn of causing her to die.

French friends of the 30-year-old woman said she told them she had won the affections of the "great Italian man of state" after recent interviews.

Chamburn's condition was reported at a private hospital as satisfactory.

The young woman had some reputation as an actress and a writer under the pen-name of Madeleine de Fontanges.

Tavernkeeper Says He Was Fleeced Of $3,500

Milwaukee—(P)—Pasquale Screma, 42, a Waukesha tavernkeeper, reported to police yesterday two confidence men fleeced him of $3,500.

He said he produced the sum, which consisted of $1,000 in savings and $2,500 raised by placing a mortgage on his home, to prove to the strangers he had money and could be trusted to help them distribute to Milwaukee poor what they said was an inheritance of $18,000 delegated for that purpose.

Screma told police he drove the money to Waukesha later to obtain the mortgage, finding the stranger from California in front of a hotel here. The man suddenly complained of feeling ill.

To show his "good faith" Screma left his $3,500 with the stranger while he went to a drugstore to obtain some pills for him. When he returned, the strangers and his money were gone.

Council Takes No Action in 3rd Ward Race

Candidates Must Run for Aldermanic Post as Independents

I I SEEK BERTH Offer Canning Company Parcel of Land in 3rd Ward for $1,250

What Council Did:

Decided not to place a candidate's name on the ballot for alderman in the Third ward in place of the late Charles E. Voss.

Voted to offer Fuhrmann Canning company a piece of land in the Third ward for $1,250.

Adopted resolution of condolence to family of Alderman Voss who died last week.

Voted to ask government grant on the $100,000 needed for the new senior high school equipment.

Faced with the task of selecting one of eleven persons seeking to replace the late Charles E. Voss on the April election ticket for alderman in the Third ward, the common council last night voted to take no action in the matter.

Joseph DeBruin, who filed nomination papers, is the only candidate for the post who will have his name on the ballot. Other candidates must use "stickers" or have their names written in.

The 11 persons who asked that their names be placed on the ballot in place of Alderman Voss were: Gustave Keller, C. T. Mace, Joseph DeBruin, who filed nomination papers, is the only candidate for the post who will have his name on the ballot. Other candidates must use "stickers" or have their names written in.

MAY BUY BUILDING The city attorney was instructed to get information from the government concerning the proposed sale of the old post office building after Alderman Stenbauer said he had information that the city might be able to purchase it for $1. He pointed out that if the building is sold to others the city would be without quarters for the relief department.

Otto W. Schultz, Theodore Sanders, Hubert J. Piette, Paul Hackbert, Walter Fountain, Peter Vollmer, Charles J. Captain, Andrew Schiltz and Miss Adelaide Schuller.

City Attorney Harry Hoeft cited the state law regarding such cases which read that "the council shall name a candidate" to fill the vacancy. He said a question could be raised as to whether the word "shall" meant the council must or may name a candidate.

Alderman Stenbauer opposed taking discussion of the matter in.

Injuries Fatal To Kaukauna Man

Clifford C. Doering, 24, Dies After Being Pinned Beneath Paper Roll

Kaukauna—Injuries received Tuesday night when a 1400-pound roll of paper which he was loading on a freight car fell on him, resulted in the death of Clifford Charles Doering, 24, 224 E. ## Pope Pius Lashes at Communism as "The Ruin of Family and Society"

Vatican City—(P)—Pope Pius XI, striking at communism as "the ruin of family and society," called upon the employers of world labor in a historic encyclical today to meet "the great duties imposed by justice."

"The wage earner is not to receive as alms what is his due in justice," said the pontiff.

"Let no one attempt with trifling charitable donations to exempt himself from the great duties imposed by justice."

The very dignity of the workingman makes him justly and acutely sensitive to the duties of others in this regard."

Thus, "under the eye of God," he sought to root out "false doctrine of communism" which, he said,

Hull Suggests Halt To Controversy Over Anti-Hitler Remarks

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hull called today for an end to the international controversy over anti-Hitler remarks of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York.

The state department head issued a brief statement after making a second apology to German Ambassador Hans Luther, who protested against LaGuardia's designation of Reichsfuehrer Hitler as "a man without honor" at a New York anti-Nazi mass meeting.

"I am personally hopeful," Hull's statement said, "that all who are participating in the present controversy, which is marked by bitter and vituperative utterances in this country and in Germany, may soon reach the conclusion that it would be to the best interests of both countries for them to find other subjects which can be discussed more temperately."

"In view of the limitation upon the power of this government with respect to freedom of speech, which is universally known, nothing can be profitably added to what already has been said."

U. of W. Regents Award Contract To New President

Nine of 15 Board Members Vote Approval of Committee's Selection

Madison—(P)—Regents of the University of Wisconsin awarded Clarence A. Dykstra a one-year contract as president of the university today.

Selection of Dykstra, 54-year-old city manager of Cincinnati, O., ended a 2-month search for an administration of an outstanding midwestern educational institution which has an enrollment of more than 10,000, the largest in its history.

Dykstra succeeds Dr. Glenn Frank, widely-known publicist and speaker, who was dismissed on charges of administrative inefficiency after holding the position 11 years.

Nine of the 15 board members voted approval of their executive committee's recommendation appointing Dykstra effective July 1. Three declined to vote and three others were recorded as absent.

Factional bitterness which focused nation-wide attention on the Frank ouster hearing in January was again apparent in today's board proceedings. There was no adverse comment on Dykstra's qualifications, but two of the three members not voting criticized the method followed in choosing him.

Executive Session The board retired into executive session at the outset on the request of John Callahan, executive committee chairman, who said negotiations regarding the presidency had raised "some problems which he wanted to discuss privately with the board."

The executive session over, Callahan read the committee report, stating that Dykstra was the "final choice" from among between 30 and 40 candidates. He called for discussion.

Washington—(P)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette introduced a bill yesterday to authorize the secretary of war to furnish flat stone, flat bronze or upright grave markers for war veterans.

The Wisconsin senator also offered a bill to provide relief for government contractors whose costs were increased by the NRA. A third bill submitted by LaFollette would extend by one year Wisconsin's time for starting construction of a bridge across the river at LaCrosse and extend the completion time three years.

Representative Withrow of LaCrosse also offered a bill to extend Wisconsin's starting and completing times in construction of the LaCrosse bridge.

Uley Says Hope for Eternal Peace Futile

Beloit—(P)—Clifton M. Uley, director of the Chicago council of Foreign Affairs, told the closing session of the Institute of International Relations yesterday "the greatest war threat today is Germany."

"The world will have its troubles during the next few years," he stated, "but I do not think there will be any serious war. If we can get by the next five years, we can find means for getting by a few years longer. But the hope for an eternal peace is futile."

Declaring the world is as intimately associated today as neighborhoods were 100 years ago, Dr. Allen D. Albert said "every boot-black in Wisconsin would feel the effects of war in Europe even if we attempted isolation or neutrality."

STUDY POLICE RADIO Elkhorst—(P)—The Walworth county police committee began a study today of the costs of a police radio system for Walworth county. J. Arthur Moran, Delavan, proposed a two-way system.

Police Cruise Streets to Curb Cab Strike Disorders

29 MEN ARRESTED Chicago Loop Traffic Hampered by 13-Day Old Dispute

Chicago—(P)—Fleets of taxicabs rolled out on the streets again today under added police protection to forestall any possible recurrence of yesterday's strike rioting in the heart of the loop district.

Officials of the yellow and checker cab companies claimed they put more than 500 cabs back in service in defiance of strikers' threats to "clear the streets."

Taxis in the loop carried guards. Police stationed themselves at hotel cab stands and railroad stations. A score of police squads cruised the loop to spot any attempt to revive the street fighting which yesterday saw a roving band of strikers and sympathizers wreck cabs, attack drivers, and clash with police.

Cabs were withdrawn from streets from midnight to 7 a. m. today after work outbursts of violence between working chauffeurs and strike sympathizers.

Two cabs were burned and a striker suffered a bullet wound in the leg in affrays last night.

Earlier in the day several hundred rioters slugged cab drivers, battled police, and stoned, overturned and burned cabs in the downtown business section. Thousands of office workers and shoppers witnessed the disorders. Police arrested 29 men and estimated as many persons had been injured.

A mounted policeman who rode into the rioters was pulled from his horse and beaten. The screaming sirens of police cars and fire trucks called thousands of office workers to skyscraper windows in the heart of the city's financial and theater district. Pedestrians massed on sidewalks. Street traffic came to a virtual standstill.

Rioters broke up into small groups when police reinforcements charged their ranks.

S. A. Rose of Pittsburgh, Kas., a convention delegate, was struck on the head by a brick as he sat in a Yellow cab. Dr. W. K. Fisher, a pedestrian, was knocked unconscious by a brick.

Violence continued in outlying sections during the night.

Duffy Wants Limit On Size of Court

Senator to Recommend Amendment to Fix Number of Judges

Saratoga, Pa.—(P)—U. S. Senator Francis Ryan Duffy, Democrat, Wisconsin, said last night he will recommend a constitutional amendment limiting the number of supreme court justices to whatever figure results from President Roosevelt's proposal to reorganize the court.

Senator Duffy said he would submit the Amendment to prevent future problems from making additional increases to the membership of the supreme court.

"I think that the people of the United States should be given the opportunity to make such an amendment to the constitution," Senator Duffy said. "If President Roosevelt is successful in securing passage of his plan to enlarge the supreme court, the voters should express some limitation on future increases in the membership of the nation's highest tribunal."

The Wisconsin senator, here to address the annual banquet of the Irish American society of Lackawanna county, said he was in sympathy with the president's court program. He added, however, that he will await the final draft of the bill before committing himself.

County Wins 2nd Place In State Safety Contest

Outagamie county placed second in its respective group in the county safety council contest in 1936, F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, was told in a letter today from West A. Burdick, director of the Wisconsin State Highway Safety department. Burdick said that Governor Philip F. LaFollette would award Mr. Appleton a certificate of award for second place at 10:30 Wednesday morning, March 24, at Madison.

Contracts Spell Year of Peace in Big Steel Plants

Union Leaders and Corporation Executives Reach Agreement

Pittsburgh—(P)—"Big steel" entered a new era today, assured for a year, if present near peak production continues, of striding toward new eminence in American industry.

There will be no costly strikes to paralyze the giant mills of the two billion dollar U. S. Steel corporation.

Union leaders, followers of militant John L. Lewis, and corporation executives so agreed yesterday in signing contracts unprecedented in the industry.

The contracts supplement the one that Philip Murray, chief lieutenant of Lewis, and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest subsidiary of U. S. Steel, signed March 2.

Executives of five of U. S. Steel's largest producing units, employing 160,000 men, signed the documents, ending three days of negotiations.

The contracts will expire next March 1 and provide that there shall be no cessation of work in that time. Instead, differences will be taken up between the management and employees and that if through several successive steps no agreement is reached, the problem will be submitted for final decision to an impartial umpire designated by the company and the union.

Boosted Wages The companies boosted wages, agreed to reinstate any union worker with full pay where it is decided an injustice was done the worker, to recognize seniority rights in all cases of promotion and increase or decrease of work forces, and grant a week's vacation with pay for all employees with five or more years of service.

The contracts recognize the union sponsored by the steel workers organizing committee—affiliate of Lewis committee for industrial organization—as collective bargaining agent for its members.

Fairless, head of the parent corporation's greatest subsidiary, signed first. Then these executives signed in order:

B. F. Harris, National Tube, of Pittsburgh; J. L. Perry, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, Birmingham; C. F. Hood, American Steel and Wire company, Cleveland and A. M. Diehl, Columbia steel, San Francisco.

Irish Senators Want Chair at University

Madison—(P)—The senate made a belated effort today to cushion its assembly colleagues in honoring the memory of Ste. Patrick.

Eight senators, all claiming their forefathers came from "Auld Erin," introduced a bill to appropriate $12,000 annually for a chair of Gaelic and Irish history and literature at the University of Wisconsin.

The authors are Bolens, Cashman, Clarence Coakley, Dempsey, Nick and Morrissey.

Senator Coakley, chosen to steer the measure into legislative channels, received a setback when he asked unanimous consent for introduction. Senator Walter Rusk, (Prog., Neillsville), objected.

The authors, however, succeeded on a motion to suspend the rules. Assemblymen held St. Patrick's day festivities on schedule yesterday.

City Official Wants To Meet Scot Who Is Always Short on Tax

Superior—(P)—City Treasurer George Ostrom dug into his pocket for 12 cents again today and vowed that some day, some place he'd square accounts with the canny Scotsman who for five years has been a sumpence short on his taxes. The Scotsman who owns two lots here and now owes Ostrom 60 cents is Duncan Grant of Invernesshire, Scotland.

"I could let him and go delinquent, but I'd rather dig down in my pocket for the few cents," Ostrom said. "Guess I'm too soft hearted."

"But some day I'll meet up with him and then we'll see who's the Scotsman."

Ostrom's repeated attempts to collect from Grant by mail have been unsuccessful.

Detroit University Dean Heads New Organization

STRIKERS SIT TIGHT Chrysler Corporation Delays Decision on Future Action

Detroit—(P)—Pickets watched warily in a drizzle of snow and rain today for any attempt to eject 6,000 strikers defying a court injunction by occupying eight Chrysler corporation plants, while a plan for curbing Michigan's epidemic of sit-down strikes by conciliation took form.

Vigilance of "union patrols" are redoubled.

Since 9 a. m. yesterday, the strikers and their officials on the United Automobile Workers of America and the committee for industrial organization have been in violation of an injunction signed by Circuit Judge Allan Campbell.

There was, however, no indication when or if the Chrysler corporation would take the final legal step preliminary to forcible ejection, petitioning for writs of attachment for the injunction respondents.

The board was the first tangible outgrowth of a conference, called by Governor Frank Murphy, which ended a 1-day session last night with the drafting of plans for mediating, conciliating and arbitrating existing or threatened differences between employers and employees.

Dr. Frederick Seidenburg, S. J., executive dean of the University of Detroit, was appointed chairman of the Detroit conciliatory board at the conclusion of the meeting.

The board, as soon as its other members are chosen, could offer its services to the Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America in seeking composition of the differences.

Voluntary Organization Since the board is a voluntary organization there is nothing to require the disputants to submit themselves, but if they so elected, they could ask for its help. The services of the conciliatory body would be available, likewise, in any of more than a score of labor conflicts in the motor city.

Striking U. W. A. members quietly spent their tenth night in the Chrysler plants. Lester L. Colbert, the corporation's attorney, said the firm had not determined its next step. Two possible courses were the seeking of writs of body attachment for the arrest of the injunction violators or contempt of court citations.

Either of these would call for their arrest by Sheriff Thomas C. Wilcox and his deputies, which would amount to forcible ejection of the strikers from the factories.

The $100,000,000 penalty fixed by Circuit Judge Allan Campbell for disregard of the injunction would make it possible for Chrysler to sue to obtain judgments against the defendants' "goods, lands and chattels."

Officers Defendants Besides the strikers, the defendants are the officers of the U. A. W. A. and the parent committee for industrial organization.

Dean Seidenburg and Mayor Frank Crozens were among the 23 representatives of labor, business, industry, churches, civic bodies and the city and state governments who conferred with Governor Murphy yesterday.

A resolution adopted unanimously at the conference recommended that "aid in the present emergency be immediately preparing, introducing and sponsoring legislation providing for suitable machinery for state aid in the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of labor disputes."

Such proposals would be sent to the Michigan legislature, in session at Lansing. The conference also urged that a more exhaustive study be made to provide a permanent

C. I. O. Agrees on Peace In Steel Plants for Year

By the Associated Press
The Committee for Industrial Organization, some of whose affiliates were engaged in strikes involving thousands of workers, today was a party to contracts intended to insure industrial peace in five large steel companies for at least a year.

The contracts covered seniority rights, vacations and other questions, and provided that work continue pending conciliation of any differences between now and next March 1.

Companies which signed the agreements were producing units of the U. S. Steel corporation. They were Carnegie-Illinois steel corporation, National Tube, Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad; American Steel and Wire; and Columbia Steel.

Detroit civic leaders and Governor Murphy of Michigan agreed to the creation of a civic board to conciliate labor disputes. Meanwhile, 5,000 sit-down strikers continued to defy a court injunction ordering them to evacuate Detroit plants of the Chrysler Motor corporation.

Striking clerks at the Frank and Seder department store at Detroit ended a 10-hour sit-down demonstration early today, after 300 policemen had massed around the establishment. A union official said the strike call was the result of a "misunderstanding."

Police Arrest 29
Augmented forces of police patrolled Chicago's downtown business district after widespread disorders in a taxicab drivers' strike. Police arrested 29 men yesterday after violence broke out in scattered parts of the city between strike sympathizers and non-striking chauffeurs. Cabs were burned and overturned and their drivers slugged. One striker suffered a bullet wound in the leg last night.

A group of 600 sit-down strikers at the Ohio Match company in Akron ended their dispute and voted to return to work under a settlement providing for negotiations on wage increase demands. Approximately 750 employees have been idle since March 3.

The National Labor Relations board petitioned the New York Circuit Court of Appeals for a mandate to force Remington Rand, Inc., to reinstate 4,000 employees who, the board said, were discharged as the result of a strike. At Washington Secretary Perkins planned conferences on the dispute.

Council Votes to Take No Action in Third Ward Race

the committee of the whole. He said the candidates should run independently and that the choice be left with the voters of the Third ward.

The aldermen decided to offer a piece of land near the City home in the Third ward to the Hermann Canning company for $1,500. The company is planning to use the area for an addition to its plant provided an agreement on the price can be reached. The council as a committee of the whole voted to set the price at $1,250, and the report was opposed by Alderman VanderHoeft who held that $1,500 should be asked.

A resolution of condolence expressing regrets of the council on the death of Alderman Voss was voted. A copy will be sent to the family.

Will Ask Grant

Upon the request of the school board, the council voted to ask a government grant of 45 per cent of $100,000 needed for the new senior high school equipment. Because bids on construction of the school were high, the expenditure of an extra $100,000 on the project became necessary.

Alderman DeLand was appointed chairman of the public grounds and buildings committee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alderman Voss.

Persons objecting to the proposed widening of Oneida street were advised by Alderman Vogt to present a signed petition to the council. Mayor Goodland said he had received objections to widening of the street which is included in the proposed PWA paving program. Alderman Hartman said he wanted a separate vote on widening of the street when the program before the council for final acceptance.

Two Paving Programs
Mayor Goodland explained that two streets, Fremont and Kewanee avenue, which are in the proposed PWA paving program, also are included in the street improvement program for which the county board has been asked to appropriate $50,000. He mentioned the board's plan to issue $100,000 to meet the city's request and to oil roads in the county. The city would pay about 45 per cent of this amount, he explained and indicated it might be advisable for the city to withdraw its request.

Alderman Brautigam, however, felt that the program should be carried out as planned.

Landscaping the grounds at the city sewage disposal plant will be submitted as a PWA project. Estimated cost of the project is $12,391.

More Income Taxes Paid in Wisconsin

30 Per Cent Increase Reported in First Two Weeks of March

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Income tax collections in Wisconsin in the first two weeks of March were about thirty per cent greater than in the first two weeks of March last year.

From March 1 to March 15, the Bureau of Internal Revenue had received $2,708,590.28 in individual and corporation income taxes from Wisconsin in 1936 compared with $2,090,226.72 in 1935.

This increase is due to a combination of the following causes:

1. Wisconsin persons and corporations received more income in 1936 than in 1935.
2. They had more ready money to pay their taxes at once.
3. They had money to pay their entire assessment instead of paying in quarterly installments.
4. Changes in the income tax law made in June, 1935, required the payment of normal income taxes, rather than merely surtaxes, on income of individuals from dividends of corporations, and the inclusion of taxes on undistributed earnings of corporations in the income taxes.

PWA Project to Lessen City's Relief Burden

Construction of the new senior high school this week is expected to considerably relieve the city's relief burden during the next 12 months, according to F. A. W. Hammond, relief director. Several men already have been taken from the relief list and put to work and others will be given employment as work on the new school progresses. The new school is being erected under a PWA project.

Handley Opposes Changes in Labor Disputes Measure

State Labor Secretary Says Amendments Would Benefit Employers

Madison—Dr.—The senate, considering the Severn Labor Disputes bill has a committee of the whole today, heard J. J. Handley, secretary of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, oppose amendments for the benefit of the employers.

"The bill," he said, "was designed by labor, prepared and introduced by labor. Practically all of the amendments are proposed for the purpose of benefitting the employer. If it is going to be turned into a bill for still further protection of the employer, we would rather not have the bill at all."

Handley explained the bill deals only with disputes over the right of workers to organize.

"Most big strikes of recent years have involved this fundamental right of organization," he said. "This bill seeks to remove the cause rather than deal with the effect of such strikes."

He said it equalizes bargaining power of labor with the employer, defines unfair practices on the part of the employer, and sets up a state labor relations board to decide disputes.

After Handley had spoken for 15 minutes, he answered questions of Senator Kenneth White (Rep), River Falls, for more than half an hour.

Questioned by White
While injected into the discussion the dispute between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

"You don't think the A. F. of L. needs any protection against the C. I. O.?" White asked.

"No, we don't," Handley said. In response to other questions Handley said he was opposed to any such law would lead to outlawing of all strikes. He also objected to exposing the financial situation of labor unions to the public eye.

Joseph Padway, Milwaukee, counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, charged that most of the senate amendments attempt to foster company unionism which the bill seeks to prevent.

He particularly attacked the amendment requiring labor unions to render an accounting and audit of their affairs to the labor relations board.

Would List Members
"Such an audit would include lists of membership," he said. "Employers have paid thousands of dollars for such lists and you have read in the newspapers of the lengths to which they have gone to obtain them."

Padway maintained that the bill imposes no responsibilities upon employers except that of not interfering with the right of labor to self-organization and collective bargaining, and that its sole purpose is to settle once and for all the disputed question of whether workers have that right.

"It is merely a statement of government policy that employers and employees must sit down and talk over their grievances," he said. "It doesn't say that they have to enter into any particular kind of an amendment."

Agent Receives Applications for Emergency Loans

FCA Funds Available for Farmers Unable to Get Credit Elsewhere

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1937 now are being received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

These loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the governor of the Farm Credit administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1937 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock and in no instance may exceed $400.

Farmers are not eligible for these loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Emergency crop and feed loans will not be made by the Farm Credit administration to standard rehabilitation clients of the Resettlement administration whose current needs are provided for by Resettlement.

As in the past, the security for these loans will consist of a first lien on the crop financed if the loan is for the production of crops, and if for the purchase of feed for livestock, then a first lien on the livestock to be fed. Landlords, or others having an interest in the crops or the livestock to be fed, will be required to waive their claims in favor of the lien to the governor of the Farm Credit administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of the approved loans will be issued by the regional emergency crop and feed office at St. Paul, Minn.

A. F. of L. Brings Suit for Property Of Federal Union

Action Follows Dissolution Of Allis-Chalmers Group To Join C. I. O.

Milwaukee—(P)—A suit to recover funds and property of the Federal Labor union of Allis-Chalmers manufacturing company employees was filed in circuit court yesterday by the American Federation of Labor through an agent of William Green, president.

The federal union voted Sunday to dissolve, seceding from the A. F. of L. to organize a local of the United Automobile Workers union, A. C. I. O. affiliate.

Circuit Judge Daniel W. Sullivan signed a temporary injunction restraining the defendants, now officers of the new union, from disposing of the federal union money or property. The order is returnable Saturday.

Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor who said it was one of the first suits of its kind filed in the nation, drew up the complaint; the request was signed by President Green and his representative here, Paul J. Smith. Approximately $5,000 is involved, Padway said.

Reveals Suspension
Revealing that the federal union has been suspended from the A. F. of L., the complaint charged the defendant officers, who were elected to head the C. I. O. affiliate, violated their oaths of allegiance to the A. F. of L. by urging secession.

The constitution of the A. F. of L. declares, the complaint stated, that upon dissolution or suspension of a union all funds and properties shall revert to the A. F. of L. to be held in trust until such time as the union is reorganized.

It is alleged a demand by Smith that the officers turn over the funds and property of the union was refused.

Max E. Geline, counsel for the defendants, said the federal union membership in voting to dissolve relations with the A. F. of L. acted "within its rights."

"The change at the Allis-Chalmers plant is due to the desire of the rank and file of the workers. The suit brought by the A. F. of L. appears to be a last desperate act to cripple the new organization by attempting to take away its funds."

QUEST AUTO UNION
Milwaukee—(P)—The Milwaukee Federated Trades council, acting on orders of the American Federation of Labor, ousted the United Automobile Workers, local union No. 75, last night.

The reason given was that the UAW local had been active in behalf of the Committee for Industrial Organization, the John L. Lewis labor faction.

The ouster order was signed by Paul T. Smith, personal representative of William Green, president of the A. F. of L. It charged the local, comprising about 4,000 employees of the Seaman Body corporation, perjured a regularly affiliated union—the Allis-Chalmers federal union—to secede from the A. F. of L.

Another ouster order was directed against delegates of the Filling Station Employees' union, which recently affiliated with the C. I. O.

near Gunderson, LaCrosse, explained they would not vote on the recommendation. The Rev. E. M. Christopherson, Pigeon Falls, who was the third member not voting made no statement.

"We have a president whose contract does not expire until July 1," Grady said. "We also have a president who has been appointed to serve until July. There is no law giving us authority to pay two salaries for one position."

He emphasized that he objected to the manner in which the executive committee had made its recommendation.

"As I understood the original resolution to select a president, the board of regents should, before they took action, consider all the candidates, not only one," he said. "This is not a reflection on the choice of the committee but the only information I have concerning Mr. Dykstra was obtained through the press."

Agrees With Grady
Dr. Gunderson said he agreed with Grady's views and demanded to know whether the recommendation had the approval of Governor LaFollette.

Board President Harold M. Wilkie of Madison replied that the governor had shown no signs of disapproval. Callahan declared he had never discussed the committee's work with anyone in the governor's office, but that an executive secretary had volunteered the remark that he thought Dykstra was a good man.

"I know," Wilkie added, "that the governor thinks highly of Dykstra's ability, character and attainments."

ists of having played upon the susceptibility of the working classes with promises of alleviation of "many undeniable abuses."

The holy father called upon Christian employers to combat communism by recognizing "the inalienable rights of the working man." He urged priests throughout the world to stand in the front lines of the battle against communism and exhorted Jewkum Catholics everywhere to renew the active practice of their faith.

The pontiff pleaded with all Christian states to prevent within their territories "the ravages of the anti-God campaign."

An official resume of the encyclical quoted the pope as writing: "The doctrine of communism is founded on pure materialism which rejects all spiritual values."

"Thus, man's liberty is destroyed. All rights of his human personality are denied."

"Man becomes as if he were a mere cog in a collectivist machinery which has exclusive and unlimited control over the lives of men."

"Hierarchy and authority are nullified. The dignity and indissolubility of marriage is set aside. The family is profaned, woman torn from her home and from the care of her children."

"Religion is dubbed 'the opiate of the people' and assailed with any weapon at hand."

"The very idea of God is rejected and commended."

The holy father's declaration said the possibility of "so obviously an erroneous doctrine" securing a widespread foothold was due to "a false ideal of justice and equality which communism has held out to the masses, promising alleviation of many undeniable abuses and improvement of the condition of poor working men."

Predict Heavy Shipping Season On Great Lakes

Boat Companies Getting Ready for Rush Of Business

Milwaukee—(P)—With all boats in the harbor being prepared for service and plans for several new vessels in the air, the harbor commissioner's office predicted today one of the heaviest shipping seasons of all time in prospect for the Great Lakes.

"Shipping circles are confident the 1937 record of 65,000,000 tons will be equaled or overshadowed this year," H. C. Brockel, harbor commissioner secretary, said.

"All of the 37 boats in winter moorings here will be pressed into service this year. And while there is no fear of an undersupply of common seamen, there is some likelihood of a shortage of skilled hands, due to the fact few from the ranks were trained for higher posts during depression years."

"Another indication of the expected shipping boom was the establishment here this week of a Lake Carriers Association office. The organization, a fleet owners representative engaged in the placement of seamen and officers, had no office in Milwaukee for several years."

Brockel said the Robert Fulton, a 600-foot Pittsburg Steamship company freighter which had been moored in the Milwaukee basin since Oct. 8, 1933, would soon be ready for service.

"It has been undergoing repairs for some months. The officers will report for duty next week to begin the task of signing a crew."

"The Pittsburg lines, operators of 72 Great Lakes freighters and 14 large barges, plan to begin early construction of four new 600-foot freighters with electro-turbine propulsion," Brockel stated. "Work will be rushed in an effort to finish them before the close of the coming season."

Plan Terminal
The Pere Marquette line, which will soon break ground for a $1,000,000 car ferry terminal at Milwaukee, also plans to add two fast 400-foot vessels to its present fleet of eight, Brockel said.

Early navigation in Lake Michigan was foreseen as the United States Lighthouse tender Hyacinth left Milwaukee yesterday for setting out buoys and other aids to navigation. This is a month in advance of last year's sailing date.

The Hyacinth will lay cable for harbor entrance lights at Chicago and then work north along the west shore. The tender Sumac will leave here Sunday for St. Joseph, Mich., to work the east shore.

Students Deposit $173; Withdraw $169 on Bank Day

Little money was added to the public school deposit during bank day last week as students withdrew $169.76 while depositing $173.75, according to Miss Ruth Wassmann. A total of $10,619.49 is now on deposit at the First National bank. Of the 1,711 students present on bank day, 679 made deposits.

Edison Grade school pupils led all other groups by depositing $48.94 with Roosevelt Junior High school in second place with $43.84. McKinley Junior High school pupils led its division with 46 per cent of the pupils made deposits.

School deposits include: deaf room $2.44, Columbus $16.63, Franklin $2.95, Jefferson $5.43, McKinley grades $5.18, Lincoln $4.09, Edison $46.94, Washington $3.97, opportunity room 92 cents, McKinley Junior high $6.42, Roosevelt $45.24, Wilson $31.80, sundries $11.14.

Board Faces Two $50,000 Proposals

City Paving Request and County Oiling Project To be Considered

Two $50,000 proposals on which supervisors deferred action at the February session will be before the county board when it meets March 29.

One is a request from the city of Appleton for a $50,000 county appropriation to help finance paving which would connect Highway 10 on Oneida street with County Trunk Z. The request was made in November but was neither granted nor denied at the November and February meetings of the board.

The other is a recommendation of the county highway committee that $50,000 be appropriated for oiling or black top surfacing of county trunk highways.

Several weeks ago there was some talk of voting a $100,000 bond issue to cover the two proposed projects but at the February session, when both proposals were before the board, no mention of a bond issue was made.

Madison—The state assembly Wednesday declared a half hour recess from its legislative labors in honor of the greatest Irishman of all time, St. Patrick.

Assemblymen were entertained with speeches, singing and music by Irish members, among them Assemblyman William Rohan of Kaukauna and his son, John, a former assemblyman. Assemblyman Rohan, playing lively Irish tunes on the violin, was accompanied by son John on the piano. Hearty applause from the house rewarded their efforts.

Others on the program were Assemblyman James Cavanaugh of Fond du Lac, master of ceremonies, Maurice Fitzsimmons of Fond du Lac, Joseph Thesen of Sheboygan, and Laurie E. Carlson of Bayfield.

As if to make the day complete, the assembly turned from the St. Patrick day program to consideration of a bill relating to potatoes.

Tells of Liberty Bank Dealings

Lists Loan Transactions Carried on by Rosenberg

Milwaukee—(P)—John V. Barbarin of New York testified yesterday I. J. Rosenberg, convicted former president of the Liberty State bank, negotiated $62,312,000 worth of loan transaction with New York banks between April 24, 1925, and Aug. 1, 1923.

The defense witness, cashier of the money brokerage firm of Mann, Peile, Peake and company introduced a summary of the loans during trial of the state banking commission's civil suit against the First Wisconsin National bank to recover its Liberty collateral. The Liberty closed in 1925.

The commission charges loans by the First Wisconsin to the Liberty were illegal.

Barbarin said the record of his firm, which did no lending itself but acted only as the agent, showed all the loans were backed by repurchase agreements.

Robert S. Marx, defense counsel, argued the testimony was intended to show Rosenberg had long been familiar with repurchase agreement methods and also to impeach Rosenberg's intimations he was not accustomed to negotiating large transactions such as the First Wisconsin loans.

Increase in FHA Activity Shows Building Upturn

Associate State Director Tells of Growth In Two Years

Milwaukee—(P)—H. P. McDermott, associate state director of the Federal Housing Administration, said last night growing FHA activity reflects the rise in building activity.

"It is only two years ago that the first FHA mortgage loan was made in Milwaukee, but in a single day this week we handled 215 FHA mortgages in one deal," McDermott told the annual meeting of the Building Congress of Wisconsin.

Richard Ferge, secretary of the Master Builders' association reported his organization has adopted an apprenticeship system to head off a threatened labor shortage.

Arthur Seidenschwartz, representing Wisconsin architects, said the association's work on minimum plan and qualification requirements has been approved by every city building inspector in the state and would assure better home building.

Union labor negotiations in recent weeks, Stanley Eigel reported for the general contractors, assure a fair deal for labor and employers and make construction work strikes unlikely.

Peter King of the Master Plumbers' association said sanitary progress had been so pronounced that general health conditions were better in the cities than in the rural districts.

Walter Zervas, congress president and a representative of the electrical league, told of higher standards for residential wiring.

Asks Negotiation In Union Dispute

Secretary Perkins Confers With Rand Company Official

Washington—(P)—Secretary Perkins sought today to lay the groundwork for new negotiations between Remington-Rand, Inc., and union labor in a conference with James H. Rand, Jr.

She asked the president of the office equipment firm to meet her today. L. S. Knapp, vice-president, replied Rand would be on hand, even though his plants now were operating 100 per cent and under collective bargaining agreements.

Members of an American Federation of Labor Union, who struck last May, demanded that their union be exclusive representative of Rand's employees in collective bargaining.

The Labor Relations board asked the second circuit court of appeals in New York yesterday to enforce its ruling that Remington-Rand employ 4,000 strikers who had lost their jobs. The board called Rand's employee relations "medieval" and directed the company to withdraw recognition from company unions. The firm's attorneys indicated they intended to go to court, too.

Denunciation by senators of sit-down strikes brought an opinion yesterday from the Democratic leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, that such strikes are unlawful but "exceedingly difficult" to handle pending a supreme court decision on the Wagner Labor act.

system was "safe from legislative and executive interference" and that so long as the courts "exercised their great power with intelligence" they would be "the bulwark of the American system."

Green explained he made those remarks in "an extemporaneous speech made in a very hot room," but he believed they were "generally true." He added, however, that he reserved the right to change his views on a re-examination of facts.

"Do you believe the courts are subject to some measure of political control?" Burke asked.

"Since they are a part of the government, I can't think of them as not being subject to political control," the dean replied.

"Do you think that system is correct?"

"It must be so," Burke replied. "I was asked by Burke how far he felt it was 'safe and proper' to exercise that control, Green said it was 'reasonable for the senate to take whatever measure was necessary to provide a fair court.'"

Burke Has Question
"How can you have political control and at the same time a wholly independent judiciary?" Burke asked.

"They are thoroughly compatible," the witness replied, adding that, of course, congress would not "every morning come down and reform the supreme court," but would only act "when a situation continues until the court has crystallized."

The dean characterized this as "remote control" which he said congress not only had a right but a duty to exercise to provide judges "more nearly sensitive to the day and the time."

Under questioning by Senator Neely (D-W. Va.), the professor explained that by "political control" of the court he meant "politics in the highest sense of that word, not partisan politics."

THE GOVERNOR'S BILL AND THE PRESIDENT'S

Governor LaFollette's proposal to retire Wisconsin jurists at 70 was probably introduced as a gesture to uphold the arm of the President in his somewhat similar proposition at Washington.

Yet the calls of the two capitals make a great difference in the advancement of the bills even were their provisions identical. A senator at Madison might vote for the governor's bill whereas a senator at Washington should vote against the President's.

The reasons calling for the retirement of men in responsible positions which entail long and continued labors, is really too meritorious to dispute. Whether the retirement age should be 70 or 75 or in between will call for different opinions from different men, but the fact is clear enough that age is a brake upon the industry and perseverance required in high judicial positions.

The reason that actuates men in bringing forth a law and the immediate effect of that law are proper considerations always. The fact that some good reason may underlie the enactment is not enough. A man who never went to church on Sunday may all of a sudden get religion. He may publicly deplore his former wayward way and just as publicly point to the many splendid virtues of the church. Yet, if we found that simultaneously with espousing a certain creed he was also becoming a candidate for office, we might be led to say that he was waving the banner of heaven to get a little help for the devil.

The example is material to the President's proposal.

We, for instance, would like to see an age limit on judges. The proposition, we think, is sound. But a nation that has gone without such a limit for 150 years can postpone its employment for just enough years more so that it may not be misused in the meantime.

THOSE WHO LOOK FORWARD AND THOSE WHO LOOK BACKWARD

Figures given to the public by leading American industries reveal to us that never before in our history has there been anything approaching the expenditures now taking place in the cause of scientific and industrial research.

The steel industry is shaping ambitious plans to spend hundreds of millions. The chemical industry, which has been the largest spender for research in the country, plans still larger appropriations for research purposes. The motor and food industries have added rising figures to their research budgets. The textile industries are increasing their research expenditures, particularly in the field of synthetic fabrics. While in the class that includes air-conditioning and television scientists are working with tireless effort, experimenting along costly lines to ascertain the best methods to apply in making their inventions suitable for practical uses at figures within the personal budgets of those millions known as ordinary Americans.

Of course, rising corporation earnings due to business revival make this research work possible. And the confidence that is bred in men when ordinary business conditions may be faced without deadly losses drives them on to renewed efforts even when they are only spurred by man's sleepless desire for the adventure found in new things and new methods that spell improvement.

Probably we are all shockingly dense in failing to appreciate the value in what we call our civilization of this research work. Only if we catalog the long line of accomplishments up to the final one of synthetic rubber would we begin to appreciate that a material share of the things we know as ease, comfort or convenience, is directly attributable to the now accepted principle in all major American industries that substantial efforts must constantly be expended for improvement and discovery.

Only under a capitalistic form of society can this advancement be made. The great turbines and generators and all that other splendid array of machinery that thousands of American engineers have set up in Russia would be wholly unknown to the world under a socialistic form of society.

THE LAW CATCHES UP

The recent sentence of the two young men from Green Bay who thought they would follow in the footsteps of Jesse James should be a reminder of the great progress that has been made in respect to the smashing of crime since the President gave specific and repeated orders to that effect.

The directions of the President within his legitimate sphere are never to be thwarted unless dissolution for the country is at hand. But the fact that Mr. Roosevelt on more than one occasion emphasized the duty of the G-men has been a potent force in getting results.

There is another smaller element that has an effect even beyond what might be anticipated. That is the seeming agreement as if by common consent that only a countenance filled with disgust shall be turned upon the professional criminal.

The expression Public Enemy carried a sort of wild bravado about it. The expression Public Rat carries nothing about it but the darkness and the odors of the sewer.

No doubt some young men who never figured things out very clearly looked upon themselves as modern Robin Hoods in their hold-up ventures and conceived that even though they were soiled they carried something of the gleam of a hero about them. There isn't anything heroic however about a Public Rat. And the expression has helped mold a proper opinion for the people concerning those who decline to live by the rules to which 99 per cent of the people submit.

Gradually, though slowly enough, we are getting the enforcement of our criminal laws into much better shape. And through energy and the use of intelligence we have just as gradually but surely overcome the handicap of swift transportation which the criminal of today has over the criminal of 20 years ago.

THE STORY OF AN AMERICAN HERO

The death of Rear Admiral Hobson, a quiet and unobtrusive figure, suddenly swung the nation back 40 years in its history to the Spanish-American war.

No man perhaps, since Custer's last stand up to the sinking of the Merrimac, moved American emotions so deeply as Mr. Hobson.

At the time he was merely a young naval lieutenant, but his exploit combined the daredevil recklessness of youth with the sage thought of a mind that functioned well.

Of course, Hobson and his comrades took their lives in hand. They hardly expected to come out alive. And the worst danger was not the gunfire to which they were exposed but the tiger sharks that infest the warm Cuban waters and have a sense for food as instinctive as the guide that leads the buzzard over the faltering desert traveler.

Men are often willing enough to die for the common good but hope the end, if it must come, will come swiftly. The idea of a shark snapping off one limb after another is more of a deterrent than the rifles of an army.

Yet the supreme courage that motivated the eight who participated, the sublime willingness while youth and virility stirred every pulse-beat to start out on the Great Adventure in order to protect other of the armed forces from attack—where does that come from?

It may be found on the driver's seat of a truck. It is often in the heart of an industrial stoker. It may repose in the grocery store clerk.

There is no formula by which it may be discovered. There is no method by which it may be weighed. The rule that comes closest to outlining it says that, as in Hobson, it is generally found in the modest and unassuming and is generally absent in the bellowing of bragging brawlers.

Opinions Of Others

YALE'S NEW PRESIDENT

Choice of Professor Charles Seymour to succeed President Angell at Yale will be popular within the university itself. There it will be regarded as a return to the old Yale tradition, whereby a son of Yale is sought for the presidency. This is not to say that Yale has been afraid of influences or contributions from outside her own circle. Dr. Angell brought new ideas and methods to New Haven which were much welcomed. Nor is it fearful of the alleged academic crisis of inbreeding. By keeping her own stock vigorous and alert, sensible to every fresh wind of science or education that blows, she is confident that she will lose nothing by cultivating her own garden and putting it in charge of one saturated with Yale ideals.

As a well-known professor of history, Mr. Seymour has won for himself an enviable reputation. In his class rooms and books history has been made a living thing, full of sap and color. No one has ever thought of him as a Dry-as-a-Bone. Owing to his close association with President Wilson, and all the documentary material relative to the causes, the conduct and the sequel of the Great War, Professor Seymour had an unusual opportunity to prove his thoroughness, his impartiality and his sound judgment. It is to be supposed, of course, that his new administrative duties at New Haven will draw him most of the time out of the still air of delightful studies. But the habit of his life will not change, the quality of his mind will remain unaltered, and the buoyancy and brightness of his temperament will enable him easily to turn to his new task. It is a high honor and great responsibility which have come to him, but all who know him are assured that he will prove himself level with them. His selection is an occasion for congratulations both to him and to Yale university—Indianapolis News.

Mrs. Jane Overberry, 103-year-old farm woman living near Greenleaf, Kas., attributes her unusual age to the fact that she "worked day and night" in her earlier years.

SELF PORTRAIT
 (In reply to Mrs. G. W.'s impression)

In autumn when painted leaves litter the landscape
 And gunshots reverberate far o'er the sea
 Where grey-squirrels are calling and acorns are falling
 Sits a patient old codger with gun on his knee
 Now the grey-squirrel is cautious and clever
 And cunning
 While the wily old hunter sits waiting and watching
 —Now that patient old codger could easily be me.
 In summer when basswood and white clover blossoms
 And the atmosphere hums with the buzz of the bee
 As she gathers the nectar from tree shrub and clover
 And carries it far to a hole in a tree
 With eyes glued to heavens in rapt concentration
 And seemingly seeing what others can't see
 There's a wily old codger that follows the bee-line
 —Now that patient old codger could easily be me.

PUTTING ME IN THE DOG HOUSE, HUH?

Jonah:
 You're right—your public is not ignorant; it IS your public's sense of humor that has kept your column alive for these seven long years. And that same sense of humor enables us to hold forth against your devastating political tripe.

Of course, I appreciate the fact that your "political writings" must necessarily be in the same vein as that of your boss—after all, it's your job—but why not stick to just plain humor? Your brand of that is good.

Where can I get a nice dachshund puppy?
 —N. I. Twit

That's downright libelous, that's what it is. The boss never sees the column until it comes out in the paper. He never tells me what to write—which is a good idea because we disagree on most political questions. I'm perfectly free to write devastating political tripe because I earn my living in a very different manner than column writing. Jonah could be fired tomorrow and the column junked, and I'd still go on drawing the same wages. I may be lousy, but it's my own brand of lice.

I SING LIKE A GOAT

To other subscribers to this column:

I dislike the implication in having our efforts handled by a cornerman. What do you think of transposing an O in his name and making him Jonah-the-goat? Would that help? Or would it? I don't if even Mrs. G. W. can find a rhyme for "Coroner".
 —D. Grade Pulp

Personal Miscellany: Thanks to J. P. McC. for the toothsome St. Patrick's Day gift to the office force. . . a word of caution to Marge about writing letters like that—they make me feel like I'm reading Dorothy Dix's private mail. . . congratulations to Ezekiel Sobduster for an unsuspected poetic streak—your spring song will appear on Saturday . . .

A Verse for Today
 By Anne Campbell

OLD-FASHIONED KINDNESS
 Some cry for new laws
 And insist on new creeds,
 But old-fashioned kindness
 Is what the world needs.
 The quaint, kindly courtesy
 Of the old school;
 The give and the take
 Of the proved golden rule.
 We draw up new contracts;
 We witness new deeds.
 When old-fashioned kindness
 Is what the world needs:
 An honest warm handshake,
 Unfaltering eyes,
 A bit of self-discipline—
 Old-fashioned, wise!
 The poor-blind world suffers
 With hatred and greed
 When old-fashioned kindness
 Is all that we need!

DENTOR SPARE THAT PULP
 During many years of reading your column I have learned a lot, writes a distinguished dentist, but alas, he goes on to explain that he has learned it from his experience as a dental surgeon in two large clinics and as a consultant in private practice. Still, he holds no grievance against this column. "Too arked at times by the bluntness" of my style, he has found a good deal of sense in my teachings concerning the teeth. He says these teachings have probably dispelled much of the prevaricating and mysticism of certain practices. His patients often discuss with him things they have seen in this column.

That's all I want to know or accomplish. How it may be with the dentists I don't know. But I know how it is with the doctors. At first many of them give the merry ha-ha to the crazy notions patients quote from this column. A little later the doctors begin to marshall such "scientific" or "authoritative" views as they can obtain to convince the patient that my recommendation is "dangerous" or "unsatisfactory." Finally they quietly adopt the radical idea or at least equip themselves with some sort of means, to apply it, and then meet the inquiry with an equivocal answer—yes, they use that method, but . . .

The dentist then offers a suggestion, which I pass along for what it may be worth, frankly confessing I know nothing about the technical question involved. If it were my tooth I'd leave it to my dentist's judgment, I think.
 "We agree that devitalization or extripation of pulps in badly carious teeth which deserve retention is the only way open to dentists"—I suppose it will be years yet before some good dentist voluntarily adopts the name dentist, but I'm going to keep hammering away at it until it sticks—"though we must emphatically condemn pulp extripation and the practice of extensive destruction of bridge-work. Sooner or later the mutilated teeth and pulp involvement. I hold that devitalization of normal pulp is under no circumstances justified. Safe cavity preparation for artificial replacement of anterior teeth may be necessary sometimes, but for posterior replacements never."
 Devitalizing or extripating the pulp is popularly called "killing the nerve" or "removing the nerve." One reason why this practice is still so common, the dentist believes, is because apprenticeships and internships for dental students or graduates, and formal consultation in dentistry is seldom sought.
 There is by no means unanimity of opinion in the dental profession concerning the fate of pulpless teeth. Some good dentists regard such teeth as "dead" and think they should be extracted before they cause serious trouble from local or focal infection. Other good dentists insist: pulpless teeth are not dead, and think they may often serve a good purpose in the jaw.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Hack jockies in New York have eased up on the old bromide that business is "all hawks and no fish." . . . There was a time when the island, drained of its spensers, seldom mustered more than $5 a day to the ablest driver, but now any day that falls below $11 is considered very bad indeed. . . . A Jehu in 14th streets tells me that for the last month he has averaged $14 a day. . . . The most he ever made was $16, but that was during a convention when an inebriated tourist tipped him two $20 notes. . . . The memory of his worst day, which happened at night, still makes him shudder. . . . At the end of eight hours he had earned exactly 60 cents.
 The recent death of Sammy Shipman, Broadway dramatist, recalls the time a publisher invited him to compose a set of rules which should be followed in writing plays. . . . After thinking it over, Shipman declined. . . . "Well," he parried, when pressed for his reasons, "if I actually formulated a set of rules for writing a play, I might, in a weak moment, be tempted to follow them."

It seems one thing always suggests another, and since baseball is so much in the newspapers, a story involving Bob Meusel, one time Yankee outfielder, seems in order. . . . Bob took a day for a shynude one afternoon and was much put out when the driver charged him $2.50. . . . "I think," said Bob, "there must be something wrong with your meter. Perhaps I can fix it for you." . . . So saying, he wrenched the meter free of its moorings and tossed it out into the street.
 The average age of musicians in the popular dance orchestras is 20 years. . . . Lawrence Langner, who has a law patent firm here and in England, and who is a director of the Theater Guild, is one of New York's most unassuming handshakers. . . . When meeting strangers he hooks his right thumb to his vest and extends the other four fingers in a limp gesture of how-do-you-do. . . . After a year of swing hysteria, I am still unable to distinguish "swing" from the jazz of a few seasons ago. . . . Mischa Moody, the melancholy Russian, signs the name of Bert Gordon to letters, checks, and hotel registers. . . . B. K. Wells, the humorist, possesses a fund of anecdotes about every prominent stage and screen player, and they have never been published. . . . He is the writer who created the radio character, Baron Munchausen, for Jack Pearl. . . . He also authored 13 editions of George White's "Scandals."

"Returning" sun worshippers say that Jack Dempsey is doing more business than any other place in Miami. . . . There is no gambling in Miami Beach or any of the adjoining boroughs, but in Miami proper there is plenty. . . . The profits to one "firm" have already amounted to $300,000. . . .

Wearing a ultra-healthy looking burn, James Bellows, pulp writer, was accosted by pale and envious friends at a recent midnight sitting. . . . "Where'd you get it—Florida and the beaches?" one chirped. . . . "No," said Bellows, "79th street and a sunlamp."

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If March 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m., and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Preciousness will bring only unhappiness in this week's day. To get through the day successfully you will have to be liberal minded, generous and charitable in both thought and deed. Be sure you are fully qualified to act as a judge in a controversy before volunteering to serve, or you may find yourself in trouble. It will require an uncommon amount of good judgment for the average person to realize this day the wisdom of attending strictly to his own affairs. Meddling will be the principal cause of discordant conditions. The wise host or hostess will have to use good judgment in selecting partners for the pairing of those who have nothing in common will act as a wet blanket upon the spirit of good fellowship, at many of this day's entertainments. Married and engaged couples, and those matrimonially ambitious, must avoid resorting to any sort of date must have full mastery over their tempers. As an unpleasant situation.

If a woman and March 19 is your birthday, through your own efforts you can make yourself greatly beloved and increase your popularity. You must display a cheerful and contented disposition to make the right sort of progress. Your whole life is apt to revolve around your personality, so you must make it a pleasing one. Be sympathetic. Evince an unselfish interest in the ambitions of those near and dear to you, and do whatever you can to encourage them, for you are likely to participate in their good fortune. You perhaps will share with others in a great deal of wealth. As a stenographer, office executive, educator, journalist, store manager, public stenographer, private secretary or professional entertainer good fortune in all likelihood will come to you. Marriage appears to have a great deal to offer you in the way of happiness.

The child born on March 19, has, as a rule, a very sensitive nature. During its juvenility it needs loving encouragement, wise supervision and tactful handling. If a man and March 19 is your natal day, overcome any inclination to be impetuous. To succeed, those born on this date must have full mastery over their tempers. A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The more we think about it the more excited we get about the proposal of Representative Gray, Pennsylvania Democrat, to amend the constitution to permit congress to select the commander in chief of the army and navy when called into service.

The constitution makes the President the commander in chief but the resolution of Mr. Gray would change this. When Mr. Gray was asked what all the shooting was about, he said:

"In case of rebellion, the people would decide who could order the soldiers to fire on them."
 That sounded pretty ominous and we asked Mr. Gray if he thought there some time might be a rebellion.
 "I introduced the resolution," he said. "That speaks for itself."

He said it was entirely his own idea, that no organization was back of him. His proposed amendment reads:

"The commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into actual service of the United States, shall be elected or chosen by the congress of the United States, by secret ballot, two-thirds of each house concurring from among the officers of the army not below the rank of major general, and with the advice and consent of such officers."

Besides others who might object to the proposition the navy would not like it so well since it does not seem to have a look in.

Flag

Then again, there is the resolution by Representative Church of Illinois asking a house inquiry into the reason for keeping in a murky corridor of the old state-house the flag that tripped John Wilkes Booth and caused him to fall and break his leg after he shot President Lincoln.

Mr. Church thinks it ought to go to Springfield or to a Lincoln museum in Washington where more people would see it.

Incidentally, the old Ford theater on Tent street, off Pennsylvania avenue, where the flag was hanging when it caught in Booth's spur, draws a constant stream of tourists.

Sweepstakes

Representative Sawyer of Pennsylvania would wipe out sweepstakes lotteries in a bill to prohibit transporting the tickets interstate or even to distribute interstate any list of prizes drawn or awarded in a lottery. That would just about end news stories of the family of seven sons children who seem forever coming up with $2,437 won in a lottery just as the mortgage is to be foreclosed.

Uncle Sam's in Movie Business

Entire Work Was Financed by U. S. Industrialists

Washington—(AP)—The United States bureau of mines says it has the largest circulating library of movie films in the world. Oddities about the million dollar collection is that it cost the government nothing to produce them. A coal company, for example, paid for the elaborate portrayal of coal production which is enlivened by shots of terrific dust and gas explosions set off in the bureau's experimental mine at Bruceton, Pa. to demonstrate the extreme explosive properties of coal dust. Another scene shows how miners use a canary to test for the presence of carbon monoxide in a mine.

The latest two-reeler of a Virginia park produced by the bureau for the national park service was paid for by an oil company on the theory it would promote travel to parks and consequent consumption of gasoline.

In like manner the whole 62 of the bureau's films (whose 2,800 copies are booked solid for months ahead) were financed by one industry or another.

Mr. F. Leopold, who promotes, produces and edits the films, says his expeditions have covered all the continents. Filming "Glimpses of Texas" took him to the heart of the Chisos mountains on the Mexican border.

The bureau's films, available free to any public organization had 76,000 showings last year to audiences totaling nearly 7,000,000. Most of the films are devoted to production and industrial uses of minerals, from silver to sulphur.

One Antelope Left In Colorado Section

Blanca, Colo.—(AP)—A single antelope stands vigil on the hills of the San Luis valley country, perhaps the only survivor of thousands of these animals that formerly roamed this region.

Last year there were a pair of the fleet little animals but hunters and trappers reported that this winter only one remains.

Settlement of the valley and surrounding country was responsible for the extermination of the antelope herds.

St. Patrick Day Marked By Parties

Shamrocks, Clay Pipes, Green Ribbons, Candles Come Into Own

SHAMROCKS, clay pipes, green ribbons and candles gave the proper atmosphere while Irish wit and good humor did the rest at the various St. Patrick's day parties throughout the city Wednesday. It would seem that there are many in the city who are Irish in heart if not in reality for all of the parties and entertainments in honor of the occasion were well attended.

One of the largest gatherings was the card party sponsored by Catholic Daughters of America of Court Ave. Maria last night at Conway hotel, 40 tables being in play. Prizes at contract bridge were won by Mrs. Clyde Artt, Mrs. Clarence Manser, Mrs. A. F. Zuchke and Mrs. Elmer O'Keefe, at auction by Mrs. P. J. Vaughn, Mrs. Theodore Bruns and Mrs. E. A. Knoke, and at schafkopf by Mrs. Thomas H. Ryan and Mrs. Robert Ebbens. The committee which arranged the party included Mrs. F. X. Bachman, Mrs. Dora Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Roach, Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, Mrs. Clyde Artt, Mrs. Edward Cummings, Miss Katherine Conroy, Miss Mabel Burke, Mrs. Sophia Douglas, Mrs. Patrick Heenan, Miss Rose Liehen, Mrs. Thomas J. Long, Mrs. Curitis Quinn, Mrs. Irma Roemer, Miss Mary Rogers and Mrs. William Nemachek.

Lady Elks entertained 24 tables of cards at a St. Patrick's party Wednesday afternoon at Elk hall. Mrs. Fred Dauchert, Mrs. Norbert A. Roemer and Mrs. John F. Riedl won the prizes at contract, and Mrs. V. F. Marshall, Mrs. Reinhardt Wenzel, Mrs. Victor Letter, Mrs. M. Frenzel and Mrs. George Nemachek the auction awards. Committee members were Mrs. F. X. Bachman, Mrs. George Nolting, Mrs. Henry Marx, Miss Tillie Klotz, Mrs. Jay Bushey and Mrs. W. J. Geenen. The club is planning an evening party to be held soon.

Lady Elks will not play cards next week because of holy week. Another of the St. Patrick's day parties was the one sponsored by Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Wednesday afternoon at Eagle hall which was attended by 72 persons. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Frank Fisk and Mrs. Leo Flynn, at schafkopf by Mrs. Joseph Boelsen, Mrs. Emma Beche, Mrs. H. Hoppe and Mrs. Anna Grob, and at dice by Mrs. Frank Murphy and Mrs. Walter Shepherd. Mrs. Sophia Elsch was chairman of the committee which included Mrs. Katherine Belitz, Mrs. Rose Morow, Mrs. Alice Parson, Mrs. Margaret Verhaagen, Mrs. Amanda Best, Mrs. Verma Fischer. There will be no meeting of the auxiliary next week because of holy week.

Dinner Party
Pythian Sisters held a St. Patrick's day dinner party at Hearst-stone tea room Wednesday night, followed by bridge. Covers were laid for 21 members. Prizes went to Mrs. Mado Gribbler, Mrs. Charles Miesch, Mrs. Gilbert Trenlage and Mrs. Martin Eickhoff. Green candles and place cards were used on the tables. Mrs. L. M. Schindler was general chairman of the party.

Over 600 persons witnessed the final performance of "Nora Wake Up" three act comedy-drama given by St. Mary congregation Wednesday night at Columbia hall. The program, in addition to the play, included Irish music by Appleton Civic Symphony, selections by St. Mary Patrick's Day Singers, and novelty dances.

Mayor Sets Aside Week for Appleton Drive on Cancer

FORTIFIED with a proclamation from Mayor Goodland setting aside next week as Fight Cancer week in Appleton and urging all men and women to support the movement, the local workers in the women's field army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer will start out next Monday on an intensive campaign to educate people to the danger and prevalence of cancer and the importance of recognizing its symptoms in order that early diagnosis may be effected.

The mayor's proclamation follows: "Few men and women reach middle age without worrying over cancer. It is not enough to worry. One must be constantly and intelligently alert for the cancer danger signals."

"So it is with great pleasure that I welcome the formation in this city of a Division of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Its slogan, 'Early Cancer is Curable. Fight It with Knowledge,' should reach every school child, every man and woman in the city. If the Women's Field Army receives our support, it should do much to replace unreasoning fear with sound information on cancer control. The commanders of the Army estimate that in five years cancer mortality may, through public education, be cut in half. As Mayor of this city, I set aside March 21st-27th as Fight Cancer Week and urge all men and women to support the Women's Field Army."

In preparation for the intensive drive next week, all women who have agreed to work in the campaign will meet at 415 Friday afternoon at Appleton Woman's club to get their instructions and organize their territory. Appleton Woman's club is one of the local organizations cooperating in the drive and taking an active part in the work.

Taking as its slogan, "Fight Cancer with Knowledge," the women's field army has as its primary purpose in making the drive, the education of the public in regard to cancer, stressing the fact that cancer is curable if taken in time. Emphasizing the idea that pain is a late symptom of cancer, the organization is seeking to impress people with the importance of watching for any lump in the breast or other part of the body, especially one which begins to grow or change.

Any sore which does not heal, particularly on the face or in the mouth, or any unusual discharge or bleeding from any part of the body. They are stressing also the fact that the only effective methods of treatment of cancer are surgery, radium and x-ray in the hands of skilled physicians.

Foreign War Veterans Plan Schafkopf Meet

The fourth annual spring schafkopf tournament of the Harvey Pierre post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held Sunday afternoon, March 21, at the Eagles hall. Play will start at 2:30 and the tournament is open to the public. Prizes will be awarded.

Alexander Gym Will Be Scene of Banquet For Walther Leagues

The banquet for the eighteenth annual convention of the South Wisconsin district Walther Leagues which will be held in Appleton May 29 and 30 will take place in the new Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college, according to plans made at a meeting of the board of directors of the local Walther Leagues of Mt. Olive Lutheran church last night.

The various committees in charge of the convention are as follows: Arthur M. Kahler, general chairman; Miss Ella Brelje, secretary; Roland Lipske, treasurer; Howard C. ## Club Hears Mrs. Bent in Descriptive Analysis of Beethoven's 5th Symphony

WHEN the Wednesday Musicals club program for this season was prepared, and Mrs. Fred Bent saw that she was down for a descriptive analysis of Beethoven's fifth symphony, to be presented at the club's annual guest day, she must have wondered how such a subject could be presented interestingly to a group of women that would include many who had no technical knowledge of music.

Yesterday afternoon when about 40 women gathered at the home of Mrs. Mark Catlin, 322 South Court, for the club's guest day program, they heard the symphony analyzed and liked it. Mrs. Bent had prepared a paper that told dramatically how Beethoven himself conducted the composition when it was first played in 1808, and how it affected that first audience.

Describes Composer

After a description of the stocky, heavy-browed composer as he appeared on the stage before the orchestra, Mrs. Bent went on to analyze the first movement of the symphony.

"The instruments combine, after the beginning four note phrase of revolt, to turn loose in bitter protestation," she said. "The music rises, knocks, tears at foundations, crashes through ulterior methods and exterior superficialities. It talks; it rages; it becomes mercilessly dynamic."

In contrast, the second movement swings gently into action, she explained.

"The stringed instruments, as though very tired after the impatient harshness of the introducing chords, endeavor softly to overcome the persistent beat of the four accented notes of fate and offer consolation to the wounded wings of spiritual beating against tremendous barriers."

But this relaxation, she pointed out, has in it a note of expectancy, and soon fate rhythmically demands and gains the ascendancy.

"In response to all the driving pleas of fate," Mrs. Bent continued, "the audience waits for answering intonations. They come rapidly, vividly in hysterical laughter. Laughter which is life, laughter which pervades the listening actions of humanity, marches triumphantly through the hitting chords and light to greater, it rises to a peak of high humor where the plucked strings accompanied by the wood winds grow hysterical. There is a grim, serious and awful rhythm which falters, and with only a flickering interjection of intonations, the overcharged, tense atmosphere is cleared. The orchestra ends the third movement on a shout of triumph impossible to restrain. Life is conquered to the effective end that life is ours—we are fate."

When the final movement had been completed, the listeners leaned back satisfied, she said, for they had covered the entire span of their temperamental abilities and had won the spiritual battle.

Following the composer back to his studio after the concert, Mrs. Bent pictured the disorderliness of the place where he worked in frenzied heat. Beethoven's past—one of poverty, neglect and inhibitions—was written into the symphony, she said. He was not contented, for from no contented mentality, she declared, could the strains of such music have originated.

Mrs. Bent then brought the scene ahead some 130 years to the present time and introduced Mrs. Clarence Richter and Mrs. Richard Klotzsch, who played Beethoven's fifth symphony as a duet. It was the first number of a musical program which continued as follows:

Carl Nicholas Is Given Roles in Three Operas

ONE of the rarest opportunities offered to students at the Juilliard school of music, New York, has been given Carl Nicholas, tenor, of Waukegan, a graduate of Lawrence Conservatory of Music in 1935.

Mr. Nicholas has been assigned roles in all three of the operas produced by the school during the season under the direction of Albert Stoessel, whose opera, "Garrik," was given its first performance Feb. 24. Among notables attending the first night performance were Edward Johnson, manager of the Metropolitan Opera, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, Walter Damrosch, Lauritz Melchior, and Frederick J. J. J.

The part played by Mr. Nicholas was a comedy role that included solo work, a trio and duet, as well as the usual recitatives. His performance was enthusiastically received.

In addition to the "Garrik" appearance, Mr. Nicholas sang in Gounod's "Frantic Physician" and will appear in Vaughn Williams' "The Poisoned Kiss" later this season. His first New York recital will be given in April and will include compositions by modern English composers.

Mr. Nicholas is studying voice at the Juilliard school with Francis Rogers, as the award for a successful performance last fall at the annual scholarship auditions granted by that school.

Palestine Is Discussed in Club Address

ANCIENT and modern Palestine were discussed by Mrs. B. B. Thiel at the meeting of the Tuesday Study club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Nelson, 322 N. Onida street. Mrs. W. S. Ryan and Mrs. H. D. Reese were hostesses.

The program opened with the reading of Bible verses, many of them prophecies, by Miss Flora Keithroe, after which Mrs. Thiel presented her paper, including an account of how these prophecies had been fulfilled.

She told of Palestine as the birthplace of two great religions and said that the traveler and writer approaches it with a feeling of awe. Although it is a small country only one-fifth as large as Wisconsin, it has a mighty history, she pointed out. Geographical surveys of Palestine have shown it to be unique among countries, for its physical boundaries have caused its people to be provincial and have made it a land of many dialects.

Places of Interest

Mrs. Thiel went on to take her listeners on an imaginary trip to places of interest in the country, including Bethlehem, Jerusalem, the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea. Contrasting conditions of ancient times with those of today, she described the old Palestine as a land of poverty, suffering, lack of sanitation and few schools and opportunities. Since the World war it has been under the protection of Great Britain and is becoming modern, she said. There are miles of electric wires, modern roads and railroads, airplanes, radios, movies, modern stores, stately and modern buildings and fine schools for both Jews and Arabs.

The Jews are returning to Palestine by the thousands, she said, and are bringing with them wealth and a knowledge of the arts and sciences. There is no problem of unemployment and the country has a balanced budget. She declared that there was nothing better than for the Jews to return to the land of their old traditions and work out their own problems. Maps and pictures were used to illustrate the talk.

As befitting the day, shamrocks were worn in evidence at Mrs. Nelson's home. In addition to the educational program, there was also a social hour, centered around a large birthday cake for two members of the club, Mrs. Charles Clark, president, and Miss Helen Schmidt.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hard in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forming "clunkers." If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, every people take on ugly fat. Doctors correct this condition by feeding the little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are losing them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your druggist today and get Marmola. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

Singleton King Has Value as Honor Card

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Beginners at contract regard high cards as jewels from which they must not be parted. This frenzied possessiveness has at least the merit of being natural. The succeeding stage, in which players regard themselves as "pretty cute," is much more difficult to understand. Here profligacy is the motif. Having watched an expert (who knew what he was doing) unblock by the unnecessary discard of an honor, these stage No. 2 players bend every effort to rid their hands of high cards. Needless to say, this is not a productive policy. Consider today's hand.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable; North-South 30 part-score.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 club 1 spade 2 diamonds 2 spades
2 no trumps Pass Pass Pass

West, being an expert, undoubtedly shivered when he made his vulnerable one spade overall. He would not have considered a bid except for North-South's part-score. South's two no trump bid was an attempt to take advantage of the 30 part-score. He felt that four diamonds might be impossible with an original spade lead coming through his ace-queen.

West, feeling that a spade lead would go into just such a combination as actually existed, decided to open the unbid suit, hearts. His seven spot drew East's nine and declarer's queen. A diamond was next led to the ten, and East won with the king.

Now, completely overlooking the fact that his partner, West, might have had a good reason for not opening the spade suit which he had bid and which had been supported, East woodenly returned the heart. The eight was covered with the ten and won by dummy's ace. A low club to the ace was followed by another diamond finesse, and this time, when East won, he had the inspiration to lead his partner's suit. His deuce of spades was taken by declarer's ace, and two rounds of diamonds were run off. On these West could not conceal his discarding difficulties. He could not let go the heart king and the discarding of the club ten was equally out of the question, since it would invite declarer to drop the queen. Thus, West was forced to let go two spades. On the fourth round of diamonds East tossed his remaining heart, which allowed declarer to count the heart suit.

West next was thrown on lead with a heart, and as would have been well for the defenders except for the gruesome play that followed. Naturally, West laid down the spade king, intending to exit with his nine spot. East, of course, would overtake this and eventually return a club through the declarer. East, however, had different ideas. On the lead of the spade king he considered the brilliant notion to unblock with the ten, probably had the vague idea that West would then dash on three or four spade tricks. The fact that West could have started with no more than five and now was reduced to one obviously never entered East's head. The end came swiftly. With no way out of his own hand, poor West, after cashing the nine of spades, had to lead a club into declarer and dummy's tenace. It had taken the most brilliant cooperation on East's part for the declarer to have fulfilled his contract.

The World's Largest Desert

IV—RAINFALL AND STORMS
The mountains and highlands of the Sahara desert receive some inches of rainfall each year, but the great sandy wastes are favored with very little. In some parts, years have gone by with no record of a drop of rain. Days do come, however, when there are showers, even great downpours which may be called "cloudbursts."

Sandstorms on the desert.

One day a party of explorers from Europe pitched camp beside the bed of a dried-up river. That night they saw lightning flashing in the sky, but no rain fell on the camp. The next day it was another storm. The sky became black, and a fierce wind arose. Some of the men caught hold of the edges of their tents, to keep the wind from blowing away their shelter. A little later the heavens seemed to open, and down came a torrent of rain. The men were soaked with water, and one of the tents was wrecked. Rain kept falling almost until sunset, then it stopped and the sky cleared. Looking out toward the river bed the travelers found it nearly filled with water. A cloudburst had made a river live again, but only for a little while.

The sands of the desert have a thirst which rainfall, now and then, cannot quench. Downward the water sinks, downward until only its memory is left behind. Some of the water which seeps in to the desert forms into underground rivers, and there are underground lakes as well.

In many parts, layers of clay soil under the deep sand keep the water from sinking farther down. Artesian wells have been dug in certain spots, and have given a steady supply of water—thanks to the rainfall being caught by the clay beds.

There is another kind of desert storm which gives no water. It is known as a "simoon." A hot, dry wind blows, and clouds of dust are swept through the air. This is a terror to travelers who are caught in its path. They cover their faces with cloth, and lie low on the ground. Often they lie just behind their camels. The camels are able to keep out dust and sand by closing their nostrils, but for extra safety the animals bury their noses in the sand during a simoon. The storm may last only five or ten minutes, or it may last several hours. If the travelers escape death their lives, they are likely to find themselves nearly covered with dust and sand.

Sandstorms of the simoon type sometimes blow northward over the Mediterranean sea. They have been called "the curse of Sicily." Thirty-six years ago, a simoon which arose in the Sahara blew over Europe, and dumped a great deal of sand upon several countries. Some of the sand was red, and when it fell in company with rain, it gave rise to stories of "a rain of blood."

Patri Classes Teaching As Responsible Position

BY ANGELO PATRI

The teacher in our schools is delicately placed. On one hand he is a public servant responsible to public authorities for his work. His courses of study are prescribed, the amount of work to be done is measured out, the very conditions under which he must give his lessons are ordered by authority. He is rated and paid, engaged and dismissed by the will of those in authority. And yet, he is free as air in his classroom. Free because teaching is a communication of the spirit.

The teacher can teach precisely what is demanded according to the law and yet be creative, original, free in the teaching. There never has been discovered a law or a fall strong enough to bind or to hold the spirit when it wills to be free. Teachers are then, in the end, personally responsible for the effect of their teaching. It is the gravest responsibility that can rest upon a human being, for it entails the quality of the spirit of the next generation. What is the teacher's duty then, to this coming generation?

None of us is all-wise. None knows what the future holds for us in the near tomorrow, much less the distant years. Some few principles we can feel safe about, and can teach with faith. Some sort of ideal each of us can cherish with some certainty of belief and sincerity. I believe the teacher's first duty is loyalty to an ideal. Not loyalty to persons, but loyalty to an ideal. I think that the real teacher's ideal is the formation of character that will enable the next generation to go forward with power, strong in the faith of the righteousness of whatever cause is theirs.

We do not know what their cause will be, but we know they will have one. We know that unless they are fired by faith in that cause it and they must come to naught. It makes little difference how much

Makeup for Lips, Eyes Described

BY ELSIE PIERCE

THE lips and eyes are the highlights of the face. We do all we can to emphasize them, to enhance them by means of makeup. But suppose these features are not entirely our best points. What to do?

Suppose, for instance, that the lips are quite thick. In spite of the fact, that heavy lips are said to denote generosity, we can employ a make-up trick that will make them look less thick without taking away from the favorable association. Rouge the upper lip in the center, blend the coloring toward the upper outline of the lips, but keep the deepest color well under the upper outline. Very heavy lower lip need not be rouged at all, rub coloring from upper on to lower. Or, use a slightly darker shade of lipstick on lower lip, blending carefully.

If the lips are too thin, apply lipstick (a bright shade is preferable) over the entire natural line, keep the deepest color in the center, run the lip rouge a little beyond the natural outline if you can do this without having coloring look messy. Unless you are very skilled in this trick it is as well to apply the rouge to the very tip of the natural outline, not beyond.

If lips are a fairly good shape, emphasize the natural outline. No need for lips to necessarily take the shape of a cupid's bow. That's neither modern nor smart. Of course, if that is the natural shape of the lips, that's something else again.

Soul Windows
And now for the mirrors or windows of the soul as they've been called. Your eyes—clear, bright, sparkling, interesting. Of course, you use kohl and mascara to make them seem deeper, more beautiful.

But do you know how to employ the shadow if the eyes are far apart or if they are too close together. Just as rouge serves to accent the area to which it applies, so eye-shadow has much the same effect. For eyes that are far apart, eye-shadow applied to the inner corners will seem to bring the eyes closer together. By the same token, eye-shadow applied to the outer half of the lids will make close-set eyes seem farther apart. Mascara used more heavily on the lashes of the outer half of the eyes away from the nose) will have much the same effect. And your eyebrows, too, can be called upon to pluck any hairs above the nose bridge and in fact a few at each inner corner of the brow to widen the space and make the eyes seem farther apart.

More hints about eyes in my bulletin called "Beautiful Eyes." Send a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

ground we cover, but it makes all the difference in life when the quality of the spirit we put into the covering is tested. How sincere is it? How loving is it? How high the standard, it sets?

Each day spent under the influence of a teacher ought to see the children a little finer, a bit more earnest, a degree more idealistic than they were before. Each day should find the teacher a little more selfless, a little closer to the infinite power that controls all life and growth. It is the teacher's chief duty to maintain these ideals of service, for his own sake, and for the sake of the generation of men upon whom they are setting their indelible mark. Come what may, the teacher is a free spirit and personally responsible for his own works.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Even Unhappy Marriage Has Its Compensations

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am enough in love with a girl to ask her to be my wife, but I am only 21 years of age, and I feel that I could be happier for five or six years if I stayed single. Is it true that after one is married romance fades and that a boy and girl are no longer sweethearts? I realize that sharing happiness as well as sorrow with the one you love is a beautiful thought, but can a dream like that be made into a reality? Is marriage worth while? E.A.S.

Answer:
Certainly marriage is worth while or the seeking of a mate would not be the primal instinct of the human heart. Millions upon millions of people cannot have been wrong throughout the ages.

You may say that not all marriages are happy, that many marriages are failures and bring only disappointment and misery to those who enter into them, but so do many people make failures in everything else they attempt. There are no sure things in life, and the rewards of a happy marriage are so great that they make it worth the risk.

Indeed, even an unhappy marriage has its compensations, or else the divorced would not be rushing back into it before the ink on their decrees absolute is dry. As we see them continually doing. The greatest guarantee that marriage is worth while is that even poor, hen-pecked, downtrodden husbands when free from the matrimonial yoke that has galled them stick their necks out for further punishment instead of cherishing their freedom.

It is true that after marriage a girl and boy are no longer sweethearts in the romantic sense. They can no more bill and coo and ask each other "ooie duckie is 'oo' all the time than they could subsist on a diet of chocolate creams. Nor can they thrill and palpitate at the sound of a footstep that they hear a thousand times an hour, but that is no indication that they have ceased to love each other.

It is only that married love and sweetheart love are different and most husbands and wives care far more for each other than they did when they were lovers. They love each other for something far better and more enduring than the superficial charms that drew them together. But you are wise in not marrying at 21 and in thinking that for the next few years you will be happier free than bound. At that age, unless you are a remarkably lucky youth, you are not ready to marry, in any sense. You do not know enough about women to make a wise selection. You are not ready to settle down and you are not able to support a wife. It would save a lot of trouble in the world if men would wait to marry until they had at least a fifty-fifty chance of making a success of it.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a boy of 17. I go to high school and will graduate next year. My parents are very good to me, but I am not satisfied. I do not want to go to school. I do not want to go into any humdrum business or profession. I am a dreamer, a wanderer. I want to vagabond my way around the world, to see the things of which I have heard, to write a book when I return. My parents object to this. If I follow their plan and go to the university, I'll be miserable, and if I follow my own I will make them miserable. So I don't know what to do. I want to be free to do with my life what I will, and, while I am young, to get an education is very good for the general individual. I just doesn't apply to me. What shall I do? LEONARD.

Answer:
I've smiled and sighed and dropped a tear over your letter, Leonard, for you are just dreaming the long dreams of youth that every enthusiastic and sensitive and imaginative boy and girl have dreamed. We all want to travel, to go to the far places, to have our own reading and studying and which are so new and alluring to us.

We want to see the sights and smell the smells of far Cathay. We want to hear the temple bells ringing in India and sail the seven seas, and it is all a fine and stimulating experience, these longings and dreams of youth, if we don't make them an alibi for laziness and shirking the duties at hand, as you are doing.

My advice to you is to wake up from your trance about the things you would like to do and get busy making your dreams come true. You can do that if you want to, not by indulging yourself in vague longings about the things you would like to do, but by concentrating right now on your studies and then forming some definite plan of life and pushing it to a success.

Believe me, son, the only people who get anywhere are the ones who know where they are going. Don't encourage yourself in being a dreamer. Make as much an effort to cure yourself of it as you would of the dope habit. It is just as fatal to your chance of success in life. You are too young and immature now to decide on a career, so follow your parents' wishes. They, too, have had their dreams and found it better to settle down to practical things in a practical world.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Post: Something has happened in school, which I hope many of the girls and boys have experienced. In my class there is a girl whose older sister was lately engaged to my older brother, but my brother has just broken the engagement because he has fallen in love with a girl into the town to which he has gone to work. I can't help that he has changed his affections and yet the sister, who is my classmate, is doing her best to make my life in school unpleasant. She is telling lies about my brother—at least I hope they are lies—but no matter if they are truths I can't help what he has done. She is trying to keep me out of a club I had hoped to join, and I could name a number of underhand tricks she is playing to make me unpopular. I've been very unhappy and mother has had to tell her what I had told her. I had to tell her what was wrong, and now mother is feeling very sorry for me. She suggested that perhaps you could help me by writing something in your school column. There's another girl in school too—a very bright girl—who is the victim of a family situation which is even worse. This girl's mother, through long sickness and now death in the family, has had to go out working by the day in the house of one of our classmates, who is treating the daughter shamefully and loses no opportunity to tell every one that this girl's mother is their maid. While I can't look down on any one who earns honest money, many of the other girls are beginning to feel that they should assume a coolish attitude toward this girl. I would like to do something to help her, but what could it be? And what can I do to combat what I feel an injustice in my own case—which I explained above?

Answer: In both cases very real unfairness is shown to you and to the girl you speak of. Neither of you can easily be to blame for the situations in which you so unhappily find yourselves. And yet it is your own brother who has apparently behaved as no gentleman could. And you, therefore, as his sister, are naturally classed with him by those who do not know you well enough to rate your own character for what it really is. The treatment accorded to the other girl is much more cruel, since it is not caused by the opprobrious behavior of her mother, but on the contrary by her attempt to honorably support her family. But beyond hoping that some of your friends will have character as well as a sense of justice and make the others feel the unfairness and snobishness of their stand, there is nothing that you can do. If either of you, for instance, were to repudiate your families, this would be even worse than the behavior of the others.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. J. Farrington

It is a good plan to go over the lawn with an iron rake at this time. Wherever patches of bare ground are found, the soil should be visible to feed the grass with a good lawn fertilizer to keep the grass growing vigorously, because a thrifty lawn will crowd out most weeds. New lawns should be made as early as the ground can be prepared in the spring. Of course, the ideal plan is to get the ground graded and ready for seeding in the fall, but if that work has been neglected, the soil can be leveled when it has ceased to be sticky, thoroughly ploughed and spaded, and then smoothed with the iron rake.

My Neighbor Says—

Lettuce and radishes seeds may now be planted in hotbeds.

To make a pineapple eggnog, beat an egg until it is light (white and yolk together), add a speck of salt, 1 teaspoonful of fine sugar and 1 cup of cold whole milk. One tablespoonful of juice from a fresh, ripe pineapple is now added, a few drops at a time, and beaten into the egg and milk. It will not curdle. Pineapple juice is not an acid like lemon juice.

HAWTHORN

The hawthorns or thorn apples are so numerous in species and varieties, and are so hard to distinguish from each other, that the entire group is here treated together. Nearly two hundred species of hawthorn, reaching tree size, are now recognized in the United States, with another hundred of shrub size. Distinctions are extremely fine and botanists do not agree on classification. Many of the species now listed may finally prove to be hybrids.

Different species are found on a wide variety of soils and situations, but they have in common many characteristics, such as thorns, white blossoms, red or yellow fruit, short stout trunk, and rather crooked spreading branches. The leaves are simple, alternate, and notched on the margin. The flowers appear in early spring. Most species have fragrant flowers, but with others the odor is unpleasant. The fruit varies from globose to oblong, from 1 to 1 1/2 inch in diameter, and with some species is edible.

The bark is generally thin, gray in color, and on old stems is broken up into thin narrow scales. The wood is heavy, hard, strong, and Games of 841, 864 and 872 for a 2,527 series gave the Antigo Neons a 2-game win over the Waverly Beach five which had a 2,440 series on games of 845, 809 and 786. M. Tuchscherer pounced the maples for a 533 series to head the Neons and R. Dennis had top score for the Beach team with a 543.

A. Walbrun cracked out high series of 573 pins for the Tip Top Beauty Shops, but the team lost two games to the Geat Dairy who had a 2,347 series on games of 790, 835 and 732 against a 2,423 total on games of 782, 821 and 820 for the Beauty Shops.

The Valley Press thumped the pins for a 2,362 series on games of 755, 800 and 807 to win three games from the Wheeler Transfers who had a 2,311 series on games of 768, 802 and 740. K. Kelly hit a 522 series for top score for the Wheelers and E. Brick led the Press team with a 446 series.

Be Careful When Buying Trailer Is Advice From This Veteran Trailerite

BY CARL W. MASON

Billow, Mo. The glowing trailerite who, in pristine enthusiasm, bows merrily out upon the open road for his first trailer trip is a vastly different creature from the sadder but wiser veteran who has been over the highways for some months or years and who has taken his master's degree in the post-graduate university of hard knocks. The novice is perhaps deeply concerned with the color of his trailer covering, the size of the mirror on the cut of the curtains. The seasoned traveler is engrossed with the prime essentials of stability, safety, convenience and other basic features. And one of the most important of these is the stanchions and durability of his vehicle. To the tyro a trailer is a trailer just as the dub divot digger on the suffering fairways considers any golf club to be a golf club for his purpose, blissfully ignorant of that fine magic of the root that fits the expert hand of the user so congenially and like no other.

After the traveler has been on the road for some time and begins to note the places where his trailer commences to fall he wonders why he did not consider this feature when buying. There certainly are makes and styles of vehicles numerous enough to furnish a choice that should meet the demands of hardened experience. Of course, trailering is so new, sprung so Minerva-like full blown and complete before a surprised world, that there is reasonable excuse for the disillusioned buyer. But good horse trailers are eight to ten years old and it is time that the purchaser should go about his selection with the same care and foresight he uses in buying an automobile.

Just Thrown Together

It must be confessed that some trailers are simply thrown together—or to sell. They do not seem able to withstand even a moderate trip over good roads. They are not designed to stand up in all weathers and in all the varieties of climate with which Uncle Sam is blessed from the preserving aridity of the western areas to the deleterious dampness and salt air along the southern seacoasts. My own trailer was made by the largest manufacturer of such portable houses in the country, so far as I know, but I have been uneasy over the question of durability. This existed from the outset and I have practically joined that large and increasing army of regretful former owners of that make whose universal chorus is: "Well, anyway, I'll never buy another."

Such propaganda from disgusted travelers is very bad advertising for a concern especially with a large and growing host of energetic competitors.

First It Warps

My trailer had been on the road but a few weeks before several sections of thin plywood constituting the outside shell of the front began to warp outward, causing unsightly ridges in three places. With a continuous "leather" covering outside repair seems difficult, or impossible under ordinary circumstances. On the right side the padding under the leather had warped and ridged outward, causing a corrugating of the covering there. The table, which hooks onto the rear wall, is so fragile in attachment that it has always been shaky and, unless I make some special reinforcements, will soon tear the large panel covering the water tank from the side of the trailer. Another owner of the same make of trailer reports the floor badly warped. Still another recounts an accident in which his vehicle overturned in a ditch and was almost completely wrecked, the nails pulling out of the wooden construction and the entire structure practically falling to pieces so that he disposed of the ruin and bought another make of vehicle.

Trailers will be ultimately called upon to withstand almost as much strain as the automobile. If, therefore, should be of strongly bolted metal frame. Personally I am inclined to like the metal outer covering as well, such certainly should endure where trailer materials will collapse before the first blows of misfortune.

Examine Carefully

The point I wish to emphasize for the benefit of the many persons contemplating acquiring trailers is the advisability of looking most carefully into strength of construction of any vehicle one proposes to buy and to look around at various models before a final decision. He will be much happier and richer in the end even though he spends a few more initial dollars. Surely it is poor economy in a contraption—no matter how slightly or convenient or well advertised—if he finds himself a year or so later with a load of junk on his hands.

Trailers lose their luster as do automobiles but can be restored with remarkably little cost and effort. A neighbor's trailer owner whose dark blue vehicle had begun to suffer from a dimming of its splendor recently renewed the aluminum-hued roof and then repainted the body black. He used a pint can of rubber lacquer that cost him 50c, the pint being sufficient to cover his 14-foot trailer. It was of the quality of automobile paint and spread readily, showing no brush marks. A very fine job was the result.

Convenient Device

Another comfortable little device I recently noticed was a small "fly" used to serve as an awning or veranda roof on the door side of the trailer. This was merely a roof of canvas that was fastened to not trailer by a couple of small ropes at the corners and thrown over the top of the trailer to be fastened on the far side, the outer corners of the awning being supported by two

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—The time was three years ago, the scene a barber shop. Two customers in adjoining chairs were talking. A third customer, his face hidden by a towel, was listening.

"I'll give you odds they don't get married," said the first.

"And if they do, I'll give you odds it won't last six months," said the second.

The third, his face burning under the towel, said nothing. He had heard that so often he knew it did no good to jump in. It was just slender wooden poles. A serviceable and inexpensive porch equipment was the result, something of increasing value as summer and hot weather approach. A traveler could easily make such an awning from an old tent or odds and ends of canvas or could even buy one at small cost. I made a pair of the supporting poles to break into two pieces each by sawing the pole in two and then tacking a band of tin around the upper end of the lower section to furnish a socket into which the upper half fitted neatly. Painting the tin the color of the pole was the final step, and the poles may be conveniently stowed away anywhere when not in use.

The 119-volt trailer bulbs do not furnish the strongest light in the world so I intensify the illumination on my table materially by placing a makeshift shade of pure white glossy paper over the lamp.

Hollywood's way, this betting on marriages involving film folk. When your fiancée happened to be an actress, you learned to expect that. . . . He said nothing, and soon he smiled, under the towel. In a few days he, Maurice Hill, and Fifi Dorsey would be married. The odds-givers were due for a beating.

Here the curtain is lowered briefly to denote a time lapse of three years. Rising again, it discovers Morgan Hill (new title) at a booth in a small Culver City restaurant telling me about it. He looks like a new man, to coin a phrase right under Winchell's nose. What I mean is he's trim and clear-eyed. Before he married Fifi, he used to mix considerable play with his study of medicine. He had money, and while he denies coming under the "wealthy playboy" category, he admits he got around. Marrying Fifi, the supposedly volatile quintessence of temperament, was the steady influence. Fifi had been doing a movie, "Three Legionnaires," on the same lot where her husband had just completed "24 Hours Leave" for Douglas McLean. And everything seemed to be rosier than ever, doubtless because—at long last—both halves of the family were in the movies now. Fifi, as Morgan expressed it, was simply "popping buttons" with pride, because from the first she had wanted him to try pictures. Hill had not been particularly interested; in college he had been nominated as a "typical college athlete" and offered a screen test, but he preferred brain surgery as a career. Later he discovered his choice was a great career—for somebody else.

While Fifi kept on the stage, her husband was dropping $50,000 into Broadway shows, enjoying some little success as a radio producer and what not. Back in Hollywood, their friend Marie Bercevic, writer, asked him to do a part in a little theater show.

"The disappointed leading man that is in all of us cropped out," he says, "and I did it. But then I went back to New York, and the next time I thought about acting was when Marie wired me to drop everything and come out for tests for the McLean picture. I tried for the lead; fortunately for me James Ellison got that, and I drew the second lead.

"The only times I'd been before the cameras had been for newsreels at horse and dog shows—the kind where people asked which was the horse."

And here's a tip for prospective film testees: McLean signed Hill on what the test showed after it was officially done and he had stopped "acting."

Although she never has known him.

Finer Qualities Of Man Perserved By Service Clubs

Fill Great Need, Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor Says in Talk

Kiwanis clubs and kindred organizations are absolute necessities as man seeks preservation of his finer qualities in a world of progressively increasing speed, mechanical power, division of labor, reduction of working hours, wholesale shifts in employment, disappearance of old trades, emergence of new skills and appearance of new hazards.

This was the statement of Hugh S. Bonar, Manitowish, Kiwanis lieutenant governor, in a talk on "Man and Kiwanis" before the Appleton Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel.

Kiwanis is a mighty, modern medium through which man more effectively routs the sinister forces that would prevent his gaining dominion over himself, he said in explaining that man is his own greatest enemy.

Builds For Years

Man, he said, builds for years reaching new heights of glory and splendor in social, political and economic development and then turns upon these towers of strength and beauty his mighty guns of destruction. In a day he blasts and destroys the achievements of centuries.

"New institutions must be devised to keep alive those essential characteristics of men that the purely material aggrandizement and intellectual extension of our day neglects to cultivate," Lieutenant Governor Bonar said. "Man's need of friendships, of love, of tolerance and of conscience are greater than ever today. These are the foods upon which the soul feeds, and the supply of these foods is alarmingly inadequate."

"Measured in terms of his constants, those values that cannot be weighed in the balance, man's real stature is disappointing to most of us. In the glamour and glow of the greatest show of civilization man has ever staged, his senses are dulled to the need of preserving the essential human values.

"Kiwanis meets this dangerous challenge of modern man. Kiwanis is a modern social institution through which we preserve and enlarge those characteristics that make man essentially man.

"Man is full of potential love, compassion, tolerance and helpfulness, but exhibits too often hate, jealousy, scorn and hypocrisy. Given dominion over beasts of the fields, birds of the air and fish of the sea, man too often surrenders to himself.

"Against this surrender man builds his defenses. The family, clan, tribe, nation, school and church belong to the series of protective devices man has erected to protect himself against his greatest enemy, himself. Kiwanis, which gives primacy to the human and spiritual and avoids the full effects of the ultimate collapse of the purely material, is another such defense."

Pegler Isn't Only One Interested in This Matter

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—I dislike to harp on tax-exemption of state, county and city employees throughout the country but that's my baby and you might be surprised at the number of people scattered about the land who are not merely willing but eager to permit the great class of guest citizens to share the cost of the government.

The supreme court decision in the case of William W. Brush, of New York again upholding the exemption, came down at an appropriate moment for it was delivered on income tax day and exempted a salary of $14,000 a year at the very time when millions of others, earning much less in private pursuits, were filing their returns and tossing their contributions on the blanket.

You can't blame Mr. Brush, who works for the New York City Water supply because the federal government wouldn't let him pay an income tax on his $14,000 even if he wanted to. That would be a tax on the city itself and there are millions of other public employees drawing an aggregate of billions of dollars a year who find themselves similarly denied the right of paying their taxes.

That other people enjoy of filling out schedules, sending in their money, and eventually submitting to cross-examination on their most intimate personal affairs by reviewers instructed to go out and get some more, where ever it appears that the victim has a little money left.

This new disposition of the reviewing staff has produced some highly interesting little interviews among the most charming of which occurred in an office in New York some time ago.

In this case, the reviewing agent took up several hours of a busy man's day going over the items of his income tax return for the previous year and found the figures entirely correct.

"This puts me in an embarrassing fix," the reviewing agent said. "I can't find anything wrong with this return."

"That's fine," the victim said. "Suppose you just certify it O. K. then and let me get back to my work so I can pay some income tax this year."

He Had to Find Something

And so he just does.

"Yes," said the reviewing agent, "but that is the trouble. I am supposed to find something wrong and bring in at least a little money. So I just think I will disallow this small deduction here and charge you $18."

"That is a hot one," the victim said. "I make a perfect return and pay the tax and you say you will have to walk off with some of my money just to square yourself at your office."

"Well," said the agent, "if I don't bring in a little money they will only send around another reviewer to take up some more of your time and he will disallow something, you may be sure. Then if you want to see it through you will have to take an appeal and that will take more of your time. So which would you rather do?"

"I will pay the $18," said the victim and drew his check, plus accumulated interest for the delay in submitting to a procedure which the agent tacitly admitted was a stickup under the auspices of the treasury department. For, after all, it does not pay to get stubborn about constitutional rights in these relations as another victim discovered when the reviewing agent demanded a wedding certificate to prove that he actually was legally married to his wife of more than ten years.

There had been no previous question as to the validity of the marriage and the first suggestion that the couple were living in sin came from the U. S. treasury in consequence of a slight temperamental maladjustment between the victim and the agent.

These experiences doubtless could be multiplied many fold and though I hesitate to incur more correspondence than I have I would be willing to peruse any similar reminiscences that other income tax payers may submit.

Keep Them Truthful, Use No Exaggerations

I trust, however, that the victims will keep them truthful so that the recital, if any, will lose no force from exaggeration. It might be good enough sad reading because some men have personal pride and make the error of resenting inquiries into matters which seem too intimate, as, for example, the validity of their marriage.

This is always a grave mistake, considering that the reviewer has free discretion to disallow legitimate deductions and take the victim's money and make him like it as in the case of the $18.

Certain exempt employees of the city of New York have complained of the tone of my comments on their exempt status, insisting that they are not merely exempt but forbidden by the good old sacred heritage of the constitution to pay their share of the cost of government.

That must be a very unhappy situation but up to now there has been no organized movement on the part of the guest citizens to demand a constitutional change to give them the same rights as others.

And there are no recorded cases of such unfortunates computing their taxes and sending the money to the treasury as donations which is one way they could do it if they are actually pining away under the discrimination.

Compile Data on Dairy Production

State Produces 10 Pounds Of Products for Each Person in Nation

About 10 pounds of dairy products for each person in the United States now are manufactured in Wisconsin each year, according to the crop reporting service of the state and federal departments of agriculture.

Information on the state's output of dairy products is obtained each year from the reports made by all the dairy plants as required by law. Figures for last year would soon be complete if reports from a few plants which are still outstanding were received. The crop reporting service said. Most of the officials of the dairy plants are prompt in reporting at the beginning of the year. There are now about 3,000 reports on last year's manufactures returned.

Two years ago when 1,284,395,000 pounds of butter, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk were made in the state, the total value of the products manufactured was reported to be about 158 million dollars. Reports for 1935 show that 1.25 pounds of butter, 2.77 pounds of cheese, and over 6 pounds of condenser products were made by Wisconsin plants for each person living in the United States.

The value of cheese and condenser products was reported at 54 million dollars each and the butter manufactured in the state was valued at 49 million dollars. About 39 million dollars worth of American cheese alone was made in the state two years ago. Reports for 1936 production will become available after the few remaining plants send in their reports.

Would Provide Course
In Safety for Schools

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Appleton public schools will include a course in traffic safety in their curricula if a bill offered by the assembly committee on education is approved by the legislature.

The committee asks that every public school, high school, and vocational school devote not less than twenty minutes a week to the teaching of accident prevention and the promotion of highway safety. Failure to comply would be penalized by the withdrawal of state school aids.

the WORLD of STAMPS

BY QUINTON JAMES

Argentina has re-issued its 1-peso map stamp which created an international flurry last year because it pointedly depicted the British-controlled Falkland Islands as an Argentine possession.

The re-engraved version — more carefully drawn than the first — shows the boundaries of the country slightly altered on the southwest, but leaves that dot in the Atlantic (the Falklands) in the same shade as Argentina.

The stamp, with its outline map of South America, was originally printed in 1936 as part of a 10-denomination issue, ranging from 15 centavos to 20 pesos, picturing Argentina's produce. The same colors are used for the re-issue; blue for the ocean and brown for the frame and map.

These islands, which number about 200 and have a population of around 2,300, have been in dispute between Argentina and Great Britain for a century. Although the British took possession in 1832, Argentina always has protested her right to sovereignty.

When the map stamp first appeared, the controversy was renewed. The question came up in the British house of commons and Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, said Great Britain still considers the islands British territory.

Meanwhile Foreign Minister Carlos Lamas of Argentina made clear his country's position — that it would continue to state its claim to the islands but that no further step was indicated.

The map stands, which now fall into the "before and after" classification, display quite a few differences when placed side by side. The western boundary of Argentina is more carefully defined in the re-engraving. In the original the brown shading of the country appeared to include part of Chile. Also two brown shaded spots along the northern part of South America have been eliminated.

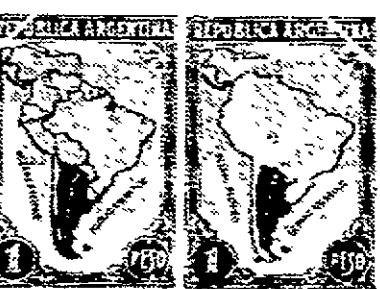

The first printing, while it showed all of the continent except Argentina in white, had the other republics and the Guianas outlined. The new one defines only the outline of Argentina, the rest of the map being solid white.

For its African colonies of Gabon, Middle Congo, Ubangi and Chad, France is arranging a common series inscribed "French Equatorial Africa." Various designs are used showing scenes in the colonies. The stamps replace the separate issues for the four divisions and include regular postage, airmails and postage dues.

Italy also is reported to be planning an issue designed to serve all of its colonies in East Africa.

The international labor bureau overprints of Switzerland now include a 25-centime value. These stamps are available only in a cancelled condition.

Iceland has produced three more official stamps, all by the use of the overprint. They are: 7-aur green and 10-aur red of the 1920 issue, picturing King Christian X, and

ROUT THAT COLD

Let It Not Hang on Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Beware of the "common cold"! The "common cold", doctors tell you, is the cause of more serious trouble than anything else. Many a person who is in a pneumonia jacket today had but a "common cold" yesterday!

Neglect no cold. Take no chances with your treatment.

Treat a cold with a cold medicine, not a "cure-all". Treat it also with internal medicine. A cold is an internal infection.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is, first of all, a cold tablet, made expressly for colds. Secondly, it is internal medication, fourfold in effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold. Second, it checks the fever in the system, a vital step. Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

When you feel a cold coming on, trust to no makeshift methods. Adopt the proven course of safety — take Bromo Quinine.

Taken promptly, these tablets will often break up a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed you want.

Bromo Quinine tablets contain nothing harmful and are safe to take. Let them be your first thought in case of a cold.

Ask your druggist firmly for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine and accept no substitute.

The few pennies' cost may save you a world of trouble.

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1937

Viking, H. S. Tracksters Working Indoors

Lawrence Squad
Will Clash With
Beloit at MadisonTeams to Practice Monday
At University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse

ALTHOUGH the first track meets of the season aren't scheduled for nearly a month, Lawrence college and Appleton High school track teams are getting in a little work every other day in the indoor track room at Alexander gymnasium.

Lawrence has the biggest squad and right now it is preparing to meet Beloit in an informal session at the Wisconsin fieldhouse Monday. The Vikes have foregone the various college indoor meets around Chicago this year in the hopes of being able to show in more tournaments when the regular season opens.

The meeting with Beloit at Madison has been arranged to enable the Vikes to compete on a rather large scale and keep up their interest. The plan is to forget scores and places and let the athletes do whatever they wish.

The first outdoor meet for Lawrence will be on April 24 when the Vikes go to Carroll college. On May 2 they meet Ripon at Ripon and on May 8 show here with Beloit in the only home appearance of the season. The Midwest meet is at Carleton on May 15 and the state meet at Beloit May 28. Beloit on May 22 with the Beloit relays at Beloit May 28.

Appleton High school has four boys working out at the indoor track room. They include Howard Bixby, dash man, Vince Jones, shot, Ralph Colvin, middle distance and Kay Rogers, mile. The latter is having difficulty getting into shape because of a knee injured during the winter and it is possible he may have to forget track.

The highs are pointing for the Wisconsin Rapids indoor meet next month. Last year the squad went to the Rapids rated as outsiders and came home with the championship and a record of two.

The high school schedule hasn't been completed but the duals and triangular meets probably will get started about the last Saturday in April.

Pocan Winner in Wrestling BoutBeats Ohio Man When Ruppenthal Is Unable To Show on Card

Menasha — Rowdy Pocan, 163 pound former Kimberly grunter, took two straight falls from Johnny Felix, 166 pounds Toledo, Ohio, to win the windup bout in the wrestling show staged at S. A. Cook armory last night.

Although Duke Ruppenthal, the Tipton tigger, go had been scheduled to meet Pocan in a request match, was unable to appear in fighting togs, he made his appearance and announced that he would fight Pocan at some future date. An injury received in a Milwaukee battle prevented the Duke from fighting last night.

Pocan was an easy winner in his match taking the first fall in 25 minutes with a rocking chair scissor and the second in seven for unnecessary roughness.

Dave Reynolds, 165 pounder from Sait Lake City, Utah, and Dickie Gerber, 163 pounds, South Bend, Ind., battled to a draw after an hour of fighting. The pair was equally matched and neither could gain an advantage.

In the preliminary go, Mel Riehard, 165 pounds, Manitowish, gained a victory over Milt Olson, 164 pounds, Racine, after 25 minutes of fighting when Olson strained a muscle in his right leg. Louis Kodrick, Peshigo, officiated for all matches.

Leaders in the Ladies Rainbow Volleyball league at the Y. M. C. A. are having a hard job keeping at the top. A week ago the White Sox were ousted from first place and last night the Red Sox were given the same kind of treatment. Blue Sox were the killers in last night's games and they downed the Red Sox, 15 to 7, the Gold Sox, 15 to 5, and the White Sox, 15 to 6. The three wins enabled them to go into a first place tie with the White Sox who won two, 15-14 from the Red Sox, and 15-6 from the Gold Sox. In the other game the Gold Sox downed the Red Sox, 15-6.

The second half the season is developing into a close race as the teams battle to win first place and meet the White Sox in the title playoff. The White Sox won the first half title.

THEY'LL REPRESENT VIKES AT SQUASH TOURNAMENT

Breadon, Frisch Haven't Heard Diz Will Retire

BY EDDIE BRIEZE

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Those who've seen them say the Giants look okay. Owner Sam Breadon estimates Dixie Dean has $100,000 salted away.

(If Diz plans to go on the retired list, Breadon and Frankie Frisch haven't heard of it).

Colonel Jake Ruppert swears he'll play first himself before he'll cough up 40,000 iron men for Lou Gehrig. . . . Percy Beard, Florida track coach who is trying to teach the Brooklyn outlanders how to pick up their dogs, is called "professor" by the Dodgers. . . . Fate of the Cardinal rookies is being decided at nightly confabs between Branch Rickey, Frisch and Coaches Buzz Ware and Mike Gonzalez.

Poll of New York writers with the Dodgers picks them to finish sixth. . . . That would satisfy Grimes, all right. . . . Joe Gordon, rookie infielder, is the talk of the Yankee camp. . . . He is expected to burn up the International league with Newark this season and eventually step into the shoes of Tony Lazzeri with the Yankees. . . . All of which has Don Heffner a bit low. . . . Frenchy Bordagaray is learning to play the fiddle so he can take a more active part than passing the hat for the Pepper Martin minstrel.

If Josh Cody's Florida footballers continue to do all right, Josh is going to find himself on the receiving end of a new long term contract. . . . Paul Dean is a sucker for slot machines. . . . Lefty Gomez's curve is breaking better than ever, but he is having trouble getting it over to St. Pete. . . . Colonel Ruppert and Ed Barrow wired "No." . . . Pictures of the Colonel arriving in Florida show him with his hands in his pockets. . . . The Colonel says he means to keep 'em there, too. . . . Some of the National league managers think if Frisch had kept Mike Ryba last year the Cardinals might have won the pennant. . . . Anyway, the "one man ball club" looks like a sure bet to stick this time. . . . Billy Myers of the Reds claims he hit the homer that sent Mike to Columbus.

The Cardinals have seven men they'll pit against anybody in the National league for speed. . . . They are Pepper and Stuart Martin, Arnold Owen, Terry Moore, Don Butterfield, Frenchy Bordagaray and Don Padgett. . . . In referring to Hank Greenberg the other day, Colonel Ruppert missed a sign and called him "Hank Goldberg." . . . Frank Frisch calls this the best training camp he's ever been in and the odds are the Cardinals will vote to come back next year. . . . They drew 3,300 for their first exhibition game and on a rotten day too. . . . If Dominic Dalesandro makes the grade with the Red Sox, he'll be the shortest outfielder in the majors. . . . He is only five feet, four inches high.

Tilo Gets Attention
Of Brewer's Manager

Biloxi, Miss. — (P) John Tilo, a rookie right-hander who pitches the ball underhanded, received the attention today of Allan Sothoron, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Tilo, who shows promise, caught the manager's eye yesterday during a light two-hour workout of bat-tery and was given special instruction in footwork.

Sore muscles turned up yesterday during the second spring practice, but because the players generally reported in good shape, Sothoron said he expects to work them harder within two or three days.

CARL KUNITZ and his mates on the Tuttle Press company are showing team last night won all the scoring honors in the industrial league at the Arcade all-boys. Kunitz rolled a 242 game and 615 series for individual honors while the Pressmen turned in a 34-1,135 game for a new league record, 37 and a 3,006 match score.

The Tuttle Pressmen turned in their wins against the Buth Oils as represented by scratch. The wins enabled the Pressmen to take second place in standings because the Woolen Mills dropped three and tumbled to third place.

Among the other top Tuttle Press scores were 225 by D. Strutz, and 205 and 223 and a 600 series by O. Strutz. The Pressmen opened with a 1,000, then slumped to 871 and closed with the 1,135.

Conway Hotel remained at the top of the loop with two wins over the Wadhams. Clyde Schwerbel rolled a 235 game and 591 series for the Hotels and Melvin Buck a 203 and 523 for the Wadhams.

Woolen Mills keglers had their little hopes just about shattered when they dropped three games to Company D. Joe Strebel had a 205 and 587 for the Guards and Wally Refke a 226 and 587 for the Woolens.

Standard Manufacturing won three from Krugers. Printers represented by scratch. Fournier had a 202 and Munster a 211 for the Standards.

Ponds bumped the Telephone company in three games. Myrion Seims rolled a 233 game and a 572 series for the Ponds and Al Sporer a 499 series for the Phones. Dagman had a 217 game for the Phones.

Koch Glasses and the Wire Works tangled with the Atlas taking two games. Wally Klein rolled a 527 series and Gebheim a 201 game. The Atlas Earl Joicks had a 202 and 585 and R. Weber a 223 and 572 for the Wires.

Tuttle Cubs couped a pair of games from the Machine company. Lesselroung showed a 205 and 571 for the Cubs while Dar Schade didn't do so good when he compiled a 146 and 100. Des also was in the dumps with 137, 131, 140 for the Machines. Rowan had a 498 series.

Power company bumped the Post-Crescent in two games. Mike Sakalarius rolled a 213 and 563 for the Powers while Fumal had a 112 and 114. For the Post-Crescent, Erv Weiss tried to keep the bottom from falling out with a 599 series.

Training Camp Briefs

By the Associated Press
INTER HAVEN, Fla. — (P) The Philles open their spring training exhibition season today against the Boston Bees with four rookies, Corbett, first base, Young, second, Scharen, short, and Martin, center field, in their starting lineup.

Mexico City — Wally Moses joined Lou Pinney and Bob Johnson, Philadelphia Athletics' first string outfielders as team two's fly-chasing trio in today's intra-camp game. Moses reported yesterday and signed his 1937 contract.

Daytona Beach, Fla. — With their "battering eyes" sharpened by long practice in the cages yesterday, the Cardinals meet the New York Giants today for the third time in the Grapefruit league season. Lon Warneke, Ira Smith and Bill McGee were Manager Frank Frisch's hurting selections.

Lakeland, Fla. — Schoolboy Rome, kicked by Manager Cochrane's taunt that he wasn't good enough to take care of the Tiger regulars Wednesday, took the mound on the rookie team, pitched to 12 batters, mostly regulars, and shut them out in four innings. He handed them only one hit.

Pasadena, Calif. — Seven pitchers, Ted Lyons, Vernon Kennedy, Clint Brown, John Whitehead, Monty Stratton, Bill Dierckx and Thornton Lee, are certain to be with the Chicago White Sox when the season opens, according to Manager Jimmy Dykes' current plans. Merritt (Sugar) Cain, Whitney Wisner, John Rigney and Kalo Chelini will compete for the other job.

Tampa, Fla. — Driving to St. Petersburg for the Cincinnati Reds' first exhibition game with the New York Yanks today, Manager Chuck Dressen said either Paul Derringer or Ray "Peaches" Davis would be on the mound against the Cards in the regular season opener April 20.

Couple Hurlers Will Make
Tigers Real Contender

BY PAUL MICKELSON

LAKELAND, Fla. — (P) — Holding that Tiger is going to be some job even for the New York Yanks this year if Mickey Cochrane, head man of the Jungle Cats, can tree two more good starting pitchers.

With big Hank Greenberg back and definitely as good as ever, and Cochrane behind the plate again, the Tigers certainly should match the Yankees in power and speed. The only worry is pitching and Mickey's got a hunch he's going to get that.

Tommy Bridges and Schoolboy Rowe, who won 42 and lost 22 between them last season as the Tigers finished fast to nail second place, are Mickey's only dependables. The other five or six pitching jobs are as wide open as the prairie for a man with stuff. Vic Sorrell and Elden Auker, who may or may not be all washed up, will be carried as Mickey so far can't find any one good enough to beat them out of regular assignments.

Most promising of the rookies right now is Bob Logan, a southpaw from Thompson, Nebraska, via Indianapolis. Logan, 27 years old and a bit aged for a rookie, has a fine assortment of stuff, can field and has learned how to keep the ball away from right handed hitters. It is quite certain that he'll stick with the Tigers.

Several Prospects
George Gill, a right hander obtained from Houston, Clyde Hatter, 28-year-old recruit from Milwaukee of the Boston Red Sox that he'll catch 100 games this year, and may win his bet. Helping him behind the plate will be the steady, reliable Ray Hayworth again with George Tebbetts, up from Beaumont, the probable successor to Cochrane as soon as he gets a little polish. Tebbetts appears to be the answer to Mickey's prayer for backstop relief.

The infield, now that Greenberg is back, offers no great worry except for third base. York, a terrific hitter, may be tried at third because Cochrane wants his hitting. Greenberg will occupy first, Charlie Gehring second, Bill Rogell shortstop and rookies Gilbert Engle and Wimpie W'burn around for reserve duty. Martin Owen, a weak hitter will be around plenty and undoubtedly will wind up on his old perch at third.

My Move
Cochrane has almost decided that the veteran Al Simmons can't play centered field and probably will play Al and Goose Goslin battle it out for the left field spot. If he gets the hitting he is quite sure to get he may use the fleet footed Jo-Jo White in centered field to knit the defense. That would leave Pete Fox and Gerald Walker chief candidates for the outer garden position. The best guess is that Sam Rice, Simmons, Fox, Walker and Goslin will take care of all the outfield gardening between them.

Most noted change on the ball club is the replacement of Cochrane, himself. Mickey seems to have looked his pump nerves completely and is as contented and carefree as a well-fed tired business man on his front porch.

"That's the way I had last year, was needed," explained Mickey. "I feel fine and ready for a big season."

Cunningham in Old Form; Starts
New Track CareerSets Fourth Fastest Mile
Pace in Winning Classic
Columbian Mile

NEW YORK — (P) — A new streamlined model of the Kansas flyer was roaring west today. Glenn Cunningham was starting on a second career.

Just when the boys were ready to sidetrack the old flyer to the roundhouse, he changed their mind by running the classic Columbian mile in the Knights of Columbus games last night in 4 minutes, 5.7 seconds.

This was only three tenths of a second slower than his own world indoor record, and the fourth fastest mile ever to win a race, indoors or out.

Cunningham himself bettered it twice, and New Zealand's Jack Lovelock bettered it the other time. Glenn set the world indoor mark of 4:58.4 and the world outdoor record of 4:53.4 both in 1934. Lovelock did 4:07.6 at Princeton in 1933.

"Now what do you say to that rumor you're going to quit?" a reporter asked when Cunningham came into the dressing room last night.

"Say I'm just starting all over again," replied Cunningham.

Still weak from a recent attack of the flu, Cunningham outlined a plan for four races in the next two weeks, and spent the rest of his breath praising his fellow Kansan and greatest rival, Archie San Romani, who ran the fastest race of his career last night and finished second.

Luigi Beccali of Italy, was third. Other features of the K. C. of C. games, climax of the eastern indoor season, were Don Lash's 9:00.9 victory in the two mile run, Eddie O'Brien's second straight triumph in the Casey 600 in 1:12.3, Dartmouth Jack Donovan's conquest of Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in the 50-yard hurdles, and Eulace Peacock's victory over Ben Johnson, of Columbia, I. C. A. A. champion in the 60-yard dash.

Rules Group Bans
Cage Center JumpBut Its Fails to Take Action Against the
3-Second Rule

Chicago — (P) — The basketball coaching fraternity was busy today plotting new strategic maneuvers for fall boys.

The national rules committee formally removed the center-jump from the game except at the start of periods, after an all-out tussle yesterday with recommendations for changes in the code. The modification removed all but a small part of the premium on a towering player's ability to control the ball at center.

The revision was adopted for a one-year trial, and was the only important change made. For a year at least, the ball will be put into play from out of bounds by the team last scored upon.

The committee rejected a recommendation that a player be permitted to remain indefinitely in the outer half of the free-throw circle without possession of the ball, which would have made possible a modification of the "pivot" or "backset" play, in which tall players used to plant themselves in the area to convert high passes into shots.

Diz' Abdication Ends Gas House Gang's Flag Hopes

Great One Wants $50,000
While Cardinals Offer $22,500

NEW YORK—(AP)—Depending on course on whether the "Dizzy one" makes it stick, the abdication of the great Jerome Dean from the St. Louis Cardinals will just about spell the end of the gas house gang. With Dizzy fogging 'em in, the Cards stand out as a potential one-two shot in the coming National league race. If he continues his holdout and goes on with his threat to retire this year, the strengthened Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates, and New York's defending pennant-holders all may pass the Dean-less outfit.

As a potential 25-game winner, Dean would bolster any club. With the Cards, who have none too many first-rate hurlers, his absence would leave Lou Warneke, obtained from the Cubs over the winter, as the only seasoned hurler.

Dean, by winning 24 games last season, just about single-handedly brought the Cards into a second-place tie in the final standings, only five games back of the Giants. Without these games—and it's about as sure as death and taxes that the Cards can't pull another 25-game winner out of the hat now—St. Louis may wind up ten games farther back. This conceivably could leave the Cards at the tail-end of the first division, or even in the second section.

Dean wants $50,000, says he'll quit the game if he doesn't get it. For any player that's a lot of money for a pitcher it's twice as much. Never in all baseball history has a hurler received even close to that sum.

The great one laughs at the club's $22,500 offer, and the Cards claim they certainly won't meet his demands.

Badger Boxers Show Tomorrow

Meet Villanova College Team at Madison; Walsh in Warning

MADISON—(AP)—Wisconsin's boxing team will go into its fifth intercollegiate match of the season against Villanova college of Philadelphia, Pa., tomorrow night with a warning from Coach John Walsh that the visiting Wildcats were "most interested in knockouts."

Undeclared in dual competition this year, Villanova is rated second only to Penn State, victors over Wisconsin last month, in the eastern conference. Tony Sala, Wildcat captain and Eastern intercollegiate champion at 175 pounds for three consecutive years, will lead his team in an attempt to break Wisconsin's record of no defeats at home in four years of competition. Sala will trade punches with the popular Badger light-heavyweight, Thomas Dergerson, Rock Falls.

Outstanding Villanova fighters also include Jack Jaroski, 155; Bob Mensinger, 155; and Eddie Kirlis, 135. Jaroski has won all of his fights this year and will meet another undefeated boxer, Vito Schiro, Madison, in one of the feature bouts.

UNLESS the people of Shawano, Waupaca, Outagamie and Winnebago counties succeed in getting authorities to rescind the ruling established for this year whereby fishing on the Wolf and Fox rivers will be closed until April 10, the sport of catching walleyes, locally called "pike," will suffer a serious setback.

It has for years been the custom of thousands of fishermen to go to Winneconne and other places on these rivers to meet the upward run of walleyes on the way to the spawning beds which comes shortly after the ice goes out. During this time hundreds of eager anglers

Indian Boy, Six Has Escape From Living Death, Slavery

Muskogee, Okla.—(AP)—At the age of six, black-haired Adoniram Judson Iglesias, a San Blas Indian boy from Central America, has escaped brutal alive and being sold into slavery.

A waif of undetermined parentage condemned to die by tribal custom, he was adopted by Mrs. A. Iglesias, an American missionary who had married an Indian.

She sent him to Brooklyn for re-keeping until he was five. When he returned, however, the tribal leaders had not forgotten him and they asked that his life be forfeit.

Mrs. Iglesias appealed for aid, and Dr. B. D. Weeks, president of Bacone Indian school here offered a haven for the lad. As Mrs. Iglesias prepared to send the boy to this country, he was kidnapped by Indians. Three months later he was rescued as he was about to be sold into slavery.

With his foster brother, Claudio Iglesias, the boy was sent to New York. Immigration laws did not provide for admittance of Indians, but Oklahoma legislators in Washington persuaded immigration authorities to grant the boys' entrance.

Frank Thompson, Bacone literary instructor, said the boys learned quickly the customs of the United States.

Describing his studies, Adoniram said: "Study, write and read. No spell." He likes ice cream, football—and blonde hair.

'Making a Living' Is Newest Course In Bride School

Santa Barbara College Expands to Include Studies of Careers

Santa Barbara, Calif. — (AP)—Bride-training is something more than teaching the art of home-making, the Santa Barbara State College has decided. A girl also should know how to make a living, as well as run a home.

The bride-training course at the college has been expanded to prepare graduates not only for marriage, but for careers as teachers, dietitians, journalists, equipment specialists and clothing and furnishing specialists.

Miss Jean Krueger, head of the home economics department, gives six key qualities as requisites for success in home economics. They are, she says:

Basic Principle
"Personal cleanliness—This is the basic principle without which success may never be attained in this work."

Appearance
Fine clothes are not required, but a neat appearance is both invaluable and required. She must learn to look well at all times, even on a meagre income, and above all else use good taste in her dress.

Initiative—She must have the desire to seek new and better means of performing her work and must never be satisfied to "just get by."

Ambition—She must be ambitious to get ahead, no matter from what level she is starting.

Personality—She must develop a pleasing personality. To do this she must strive for good posture, strength of character without stubbornness, and the ability to get along with others.

Must Be Reliable
"Integrity—She must be reliable and thorough, and when she gets an assignment must be sure that it is carried through to its completion."

The classes no longer teach only sewing and cooking. The added studies are family relations, child psychology, consumer problems, housing and home planning, foods and nutrition, textiles and clothing, household management and dietetics.

Each senior, after practical experience in the college cafeteria, not only in preparing but in buying foods, is required to live six weeks in a model home management house, a cottage on the campus.

There the girls plan the meals, manage the budget, care for and arrange house furnishings and take turns in positions as hostess, housekeeper and maid.

Claims Utility Bureau Campaigns to Discredit Municipally-Owned Plants

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—With a national propaganda bureau in Wisconsin, a big utility holding companies are financing a new campaign to discredit municipally owned power plants. Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton charges.

The purpose of this campaign, according to Schneider, is to defeat proposals for municipal ownership of public utilities in cities throughout the country.

Information on this activity of the power trust, Schneider said, came to light following the introduction of resolutions in the house and senate calling for an investigation of power trust activities several years ago.

Schneider said he understood utility holding companies, which attempted to defeat the utility holding company law in 1933 with the greatest propaganda campaign up to that time seen by congress, have established their national propaganda bureau in Milwaukee. Here attempts would be made to combat sentiment for publicly owned power plants.

Expert Speakers

"This bureau," he said, "maintains expert speakers, prepares propaganda, and drafts advertising to extol the blessing of private utilities and discredit those who are taking the leadership in movements for public ownership."

In leading the demand for an investigation, Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska pointed out that efforts of municipalities to establish light plants have failed in some instances, although the federal government has agreed to finance such projects on favorable terms.

He declared that if utility corporations fail to halt the municipal ownership through propaganda, they resort to the courts and the up projects through law suits and injunctions issued by reactionary judges.

General Gouraud Plans to Retire On 70th Birthday

Famous French General Well-Known to American Soldiers

Paris — General Henri Joseph Eugene Gouraud, military governor of Paris, will be retired from active service next November at the age of 70.

Thus the beloved one-armed figure with the slight limp will pass from the scene after almost 50 years of active service to his government. So warm a place has this hero of the World and Colonial wars won in the hearts of his countrymen, that long after he has gone he will be remembered in his most characteristic pose; his left arm holding his flashing sword, high overhead as he took the reviews of the troops at all the military ceremonies held in the capital.

Gouraud, who is also a special member of the Superior War Council, will be retained on the list as a reserve officer after his retirement. This is a special mark of consideration to "a commanding officer who saw the fire before the enemy."

Known to A. E. F. Soldiers

The retiring military governor is a firm admirer of Americans and is not unknown to them. It was as commander of the Fourth French Army during the World war, that he led several American divisions, including the famous 42nd, Rainbow Division. After the war, he made his acquaintance with the United States when he visited several conventions of the American Legion as honor guest, later traveling through the country.

His successor has not yet been chosen but he is most likely to be General Garchery, presently military governor of Lyons. Also mentioned to succeed is General Billotte, member of the Superior War Council, and like Gouraud, a former Colonial soldier.

Few army leaders have suffered more serious wounds and survived to parade their glorious mutilations. His limp is the result of old wounds in the knee and legs. At Gallipoli he lost his right arm.

Long Record Distinguished

His military career shows a proud war record and his efficient and tactical administration as military governor of Paris which gives him command of all the troops garrisoned in the Paris region is no less distinguished.

It is as military governor of Paris that he took the salute of troops at the funeral processions of Generals Foch and Joffre, Briand, Clemenceau and all the World war and civil leaders.

Gouraud has earned an international reputation for his charm and good humor which has long endeared him to his soldiers. To Parisians his passage in a parade has always been the signal for hearty cheers and the doffing of hats.

A Parisian by birth on Nov. 17,

1867, Gouraud went through Saint Cyr military school for infantry officers in 1888 and from then on until 1914 he served in the Colonies.

General Officer in 1912

After 24 years of duty, he reached the rank of brigadier general in 1912. During those years he saw fighting in the Sudan, the Congo and Mauretania. When French troops were sent into the Orient in 1915, Gouraud was placed in command of the expedition of the Dardanelles. It was there that he received the injury that cost him his right arm.

He then returned to France and took command of the Fourth French army on the west front, which included several American divisions. After the war, Gouraud was sent to Syria as French high commissioner and narrowly escaped death in a political plot. In 1923 he was appointed military governor of Paris. He holds the Croix de Guerre and the Military Medal and the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

ACT ON PENSIONS

Hearings on a number of applications for old age assistance were conducted by the county pension committee in a meeting at the courthouse Wednesday. The committee is headed by William Conrad, town of Bovina.

By the Associated Press
Hammonton, N. J. — Old Dobbin had his last fling of resentment against the motor age.

Cupid juggled things nicely for Harold Hammink, 25, and Miss Beatrice Stevens, 24, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hammink was arrested for speeding while driving with Miss Stevens. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Lloyd E. Clark and explained he was hurrying to get a marriage license.

Justice Clark said, well, he could take care of that, too. With the assistance of a deputy sheriff he married them—after collecting the $3.50 speeding fine.

Gas, Gas All the Time, Can't Eat or Sleep

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to be affected. I was so disgusted. Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

—Mrs. J. A. Filler.

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out a poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. E. J. Schenck, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka relieves bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and constipation. At all leading drugstores.

Note Increase in Auto Accidents

Safety Council Reveals Figures for Winnebago County

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—There have been twice as many automobile accidents in Winnebago county the first half of March, 1937, as there were a year ago, a report of Floyd Wrigg, statistician of the Winnebago County Traffic Safety council reveals.

There were 16 accidents this year as compared to the first part of March, 1936, when only 8 accidents were recorded. Though there have been double the accidents in 1937 as 1936, more persons were injured in 1936 than this year. Two more cars were damaged last year than in 1937.

Total auto accidents for 1937, to date, are 53, as compared to only 57 for 1936. There was one more death resulting in 1936, however, three being killed in accidents last year as compared to 2 this year.

Fifty persons have been injured in accidents in 1937 with 27 injured in 1936. And 94 cars were damaged in 1937 while 89 were damaged in 1936.

Four different kind of accidents make up the total for March.

Car and pedestrian accidents totaled 4; drunken drivers caused 5 accidents; there were 3 head-on collisions, and 2 collisions at the intersection.

Relief Program Will be Permanent Problem, Says Social Service Director

Menasha—Alice Kerwin, Luna Levings and Ethel McKinnon were named as members of the nominating committee, the date of the district meeting was set for April 24, an emblem pageant in observance of National Women's Week and Professional Women's Week was presented and two guest speakers, Miss Meta Bean, social service director, Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis association and Mrs. Verne Crockett who attended the Woman's Congress in Chicago featured one of the busiest sessions of the Twin City Business and Professional Women's club at Hotel Menasha last night.

Mrs. Hildegarde Zell, Oshkosh, sang three selections, "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," "My Wild Irish Rose" and "A Perfect Day." She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruby Hart and at the cello by Lorenz De Minter, the latter of Oshkosh.

Contending that the relief program would have to become more or less permanent, Miss Bean told the 30 club members assembled at the dinner meeting that the problem of social work today was the problem of securing trained workers for the widening scope of social work.

Social work has long passed the time when it sought out people to help. Today they seek us," said Miss Bean.

High Requirements "Social work is not attracting a lot of people. The requirements are becoming higher and higher. Not in our generation or in the generation of the young people in this room are we going to train the people necessary for the specialized work."

Prefacing her discussion with the declaration that living was yet to be generally recognized as an art, Miss Bean told her audience that the job of living, of all the arts, is the most important.

"As we mature we have to adjust ourselves to the various things that make up life. . . to people, to events. There is adjustment necessary to adolescence, to marriage, to single life, to physical handicaps, to parenthood, to employment and to unemployment. Most people adjust themselves readily but there are thousands who don't and these thousands are seeking help and they turn to social service agencies for that help."

"Our job in social service work is knowing the individual with whom we are working in the generation what really is the basis of the trouble. We must then try to build on his strengths, his positive values and teach him to face his weaknesses, his negative values."

Miss Bean illustrated her discussion with actual case histories from her experience as a social worker.

Talks of Congress Mrs. Crockett presented some of the highlights of the Woman's congress and stated that 30,000 women applied for reservations for the Congress but only 5,000 could be accommodated. She outlined briefly the plan of the congress and named many of the outstanding speakers, discussing briefly their topics.

The program of the state convention which is to be held at Devils Lake in May was outlined by Mrs. Maude Rogers, club president and Miss Peg Dunning who will preside at the Friday luncheon at the convention. Mrs. Rogers is one of the chairman arranging for the luncheon. It was announced that Prof. E. A. Clemens, Oshkosh Teachers College, would be guest speaker at the noon meeting. Miss Dunning told her fellow club members that last weekend she met with other convention officials in Menasha and made plans for the Friday luncheon and the program of the two day session.

Miss Alice Kerwin, chairman, public relations committee of the local club, was in charge of the evening program and she discussed briefly the observance of National B. P. W. week in other sections of the United States. Miss Nell Webster, another member of the public relations committee, reviewed an emblem, "Beware the Bomb" by Roger Babson and Miss Mrs. Hart, also a member of that committee, gave short reviews of "The Last Hundred Years," "We or They," "The Street of Fishing Cat" and "Muslim Women Enter a New World."

Emblem Pageant In the presentation of the emblem pageant, Mrs. Esther Babbitt played the piano accompaniment and Mrs. Rogers was the reader. Hilma Bergman was the torch of leadership, one of the symbols on the emblem of the Business and Professional Women's organization, Florence Snyder was harmony which is represented by a wand on the emblem and Della Raddatz was the ship of commerce. Ethel McKinnon represented the scroll of learning and Stella Boren was the representative of victory.

Mrs. Rogers announced that the book club would meet with Mrs. Ida Tauber in April and that Irene Harney as chairman of the finance committee would be in charge of the next meeting of the organization to be held April 21.

Students Experiment With Actual Sound Vibrations

Menasha — Experiments in the actual application of sound vibrations were completed yesterday in the general science class at Menasha High school under the direction of L. A. Wiernbergen.

Musical instruments including clarinets, cornet and violin were used by students to show the different ways sound vibration is employed in music. The varying pitch of a violin string, the students learned, are attained by varying the length of the string, varying the tension of the string and by various thickness of the string.

Facts of sound vibration in the wind instruments were exhibited by the use of clarinets and a cornet. In the clarinet, a reed placed in the mouthpiece vibrates when the musician blows through the instrument to produce various pitches of sound. The vibration of the lip and the varying air column in the sound chambers of the cornet produce the sounds in that instrument.

Robert Skalmoske, a member of the class, constructed a home made telephone with two tin cans placed at the end of a wire to show how sound vibration is a part of the sound of the telephone. When students spoke into one can, the voice vibrations could be plainly heard in the other.

Mr. Wiernbergen believes in actual demonstration in classwork to augment the study of facts. Experiments increase interest in the subject which is being studied in addition to giving students a more accurate idea of the facts, he said.

Neenah Papers led, 7-6 and 15-12, at the end of the first two quarters but faltered in the last half and trailed, 24-21, at the end of the third period as they opposed the strong Marathon quint.
